MORE BODIES RECOVERED

Known Dead Total 20; 11 Still Missing

The total of known dead in the Dojima Maru tragedy was raised from 16 to 20 this morning with the recovery from the harbour of another four bodies. A further 11 are missing. They are almost certainly dead.

One of the four bodies recovered to-day was that of Ng Hing, engineer of the wrecked vessel. It was found, in a badly mutilated condition, trapped inside the remains of the launch.

Salvage operations were undertaken during the night by the Taikoo Dockyard Company, and the remains of the vessel were successfully raised shortly after midnight.

A close examination of the boiler, which was successfully lifted on the deck of a Taikoo lighter, makes it almost certain that the tragedy was caused by its outward explosion. There is no outward puncture indicative of any external force that would cause the boiler to explode.

The body of Ng Hing and an unidentified Japanese were recovered at midnight.

Another two Japanese bodies were recovered between 7 and 8 a.m. this morning, both floating to the surface underneath Queen's Pier. On the wrist of one of the bodies was a cheap strap watch. It had stopped at 7.57 o'clock.

The funeral of the Japanese victims of the tragedy will be held at the Japanese Crematorium at 1 p.m. to-day. The ashes are being despatched back to Japan by the first O.S.K. liner.

Up to 9 o'clock this morning the bodies of 17 Japanese and 3 Chinese had been recovered. Nine Japanese and one Chinese are still missing, one Japanese died in hospital and three Chinese on Queen's Pier were killed, making the total dead and missing 34. No hope is held out for the nine Japanese and one Chinese still missing.

Twelve Japanese and one Chinese are still in hospital. Two are not expected to live.

The Rio de Janeiro Maru leaves for Singapore at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

ABANDON ATLANTIC AIR RACE

Because Of American Objections

Paris, May 18. The announcement by the U.S. Department of Commerce that it would not countenance the proposed New York-Paris air race apparently has had the desired effect.

To-day it was announced here that the Air Ministry will cancel the International Aeronautical Federation.

However, this may lead to legal action by participants in view of the engagements undertaken, and the Federation may agree to another course, possibly over the South Atlantic.

The Air Ministry has no intention of making the starting point in Canada since the reasons for refusing the licences by the United States are equally applicable to a Canadian starting point.—Reuter.

Engineers Expected To Resume

London, May 18. The resumption of work by 1,500 of Beadmore's engineers who have been on strike in Glasgow during the last seven weeks is expected by the week-end.

At a mass meeting in Glasgow it was resolved that the acceptance of the terms suggested by the firm as a basis for reopening of negotiations should be conditional upon 100 per cent. of the strikers returning to work.

This strike has caused important Admiralty contracts to be delayed, which, it is estimated, has cost the engineers £40,000 in wages.—Reuter.

NEW AIR LINE TO INCLUDE HONGKONG

Touching Here From Tokyo, Formosa

Hongkong is shortly to be linked with Formosa and Japan by a new air service, according to an Aneta news despatch from Berlin.

The message states that the German Lufthansa company is finalising preparations for establishing a regular air service between the three centres.

The service is intended to link up with Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways in Hongkong, providing through aerial communication from Japan and Formosa to Europe and America.

The new service will reduce the time for travelling from Tokyo to Europe to 16 days, and from Tokyo to San Francisco to 7 days.

Passengers from Tokyo have hitherto had to travel to Europe by a roundabout route, via Dairen, Tientsin, Shanghai and Hongkong.

The German service, which will be operated in conjunction with Japanese interests, will be twice weekly, planes leaving Tokyo on Tuesdays and Fridays, and arriving in Hongkong on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The route will be from Tokyo to Taihoku, a distance of 1,100 miles and from Taihoku to Hongkong, a distance of 800 miles. Practically the entire journey will be over water.

AMBASSADORS RECEIVED

GERMAN AND CHINESE SEE ROOSEVELT

Washington, May 18. President Roosevelt to-day received the retiring Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Sze, and the new German Ambassador, Dr. Dieckhoff, who presented his letters of credence and personal wishes for the President's well-being from Herr Adolf Hitler.

President Roosevelt, replying, asked the Ambassador to convey his cordial thanks for Herr Hitler's greetings which he reciprocated, together with the sincerest wishes for the welfare and prosperity of Germany.—Reuter.

SCHOLARSHIPS IN MEMORY OF EMPIRE BUILDERS FOR HONGKONG BOYS

Five scholarships to perpetuate the memory of the work done for the British Empire by the late Lord Milner have been founded at King's School, Canterbury.

Their value is £100 per annum for five years, and one scholarship will be awarded each year. The scholarships are open to Hongkong boys of British parentage and European descent, whose fathers are or have been members of the permanent establishment of the civil service.

The boys must be over 13 and under 14 years of age on June 1. In the awarding of the scholarships, account will be taken of intellectual ability as decided by a written examination, character, and the financial circumstances of the parent or guardian.

DELPHINUS CARRIES LOYAL ADDRESS

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government entrusted Imperial Airways with the Loyal Address from this Colony to His Majesty the King. In a basket, the Address left in R.M.A. Delphinus on Friday, May 14. It goes to Karachi from Penang in an Atlanta class airliner, from Karachi to Alexandria by a big Hannibal class plane, and from Alexandria to Southampton by one of the giant "C" class flying boats, arriving in England on Sunday, May 23. The address will be carried 8,500 miles in nine days.

PLAN FOR WINDSOR'S WEDDING

Quiet Ceremony On June 3

Monts, May 18. Mrs. Herman Rogers to-day published a communique from the Duke of Windsor stating that he and Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the former Miss Warfield, would be married at Candé on June 3. No member of the British Royal Family would be present, it is stated.

The communique insists that only those who have been with the Duke or Mrs. Simpson since November will attend. The communique calls Mrs. Simpson by her christian name throughout.

The limited wedding party will likely include Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Badaux, Mrs. Meritt, Mrs. Simpson, the former Baroness of Rothschild of Enzfeld and his American wife, The British Minister, Sir Welford Selby and Lady Selby, who were closely associated with the Duke while he was in Austria, will also attend, if the Foreign Office approves.

The wedding falls on the birthday of King George and Derby Day.

The communique consisted of a typewritten sheet read to 100 journalists at the gateway of the Chateau Candé. Before reading it Mrs. Rogers asked two British journalists to verify whether the 100 men and women assembled were bona fide newspaper people. She asked the police to remove cameramen.—United Press.

A Reuter message state that the wedding ceremony will be performed by M. Mercier, Mayor of Monts.

CLIPPER DUE TO-DAY

En route from Manila, Pan-American Airways Hongkong Clipper is scheduled to arrive here at 2.30 p.m. to-day.

At least one passenger from the United States is aboard. He is Mr. E. S. Pinney, of Bellport, New York, who flew out to the East by the China Clipper, which arrived in Manila yesterday.

The Hongkong Clipper will depart on the return flight to Manila at 8.30 a.m. to-morrow.

EMPIRE SHIPS LOSING TRADE IN FAR EAST

Question of Subsidies Before Imperial Committee Now

Foreign competition and discrimination against British shipping in Hongkong and other parts of the Pacific are being discussed this week by the Shipping sub-Committee of the Imperial Committee, which met in London all day yesterday.

Statistics have been placed before the sub-Committee, showing the effect of foreign subsidies on British shipping to Hongkong, New Zealand and Australia.

Lord Rothermere's suggestion that British cargo steamers of certain speeds should enjoy a rebate of Suez Canal dues will probably be discussed by the sub-Committee this week.

London, May 18. The Imperial Conference got well under way this morning with meetings of the Shipping and Economic sub-Committee.

The Shipping sub-Committee subsequently issued a communique, stating that its discussion had centred on shipping and its vital importance to the British Commonwealth. Reuter understands that the meeting was dealt with methodically, in held, statistics and documents, including the Report of the Imperial Shipping Committee on Foreign Competition in the Far East which will be circulated to members.

The main aspects of the question are understood to be flag discrimination and subsidised competition in the Pacific, particularly between the United States and Europe and the Far East and between the United States and New Zealand and Australia.

Japanese, American and Italian ships competing with British ships on the Far Eastern services are heavily subsidised. American ships competing with British ships on the southern Pacific services to New Zealand and Australia are indirectly subsidised by a heavy degree by the U.S. Post Office.

The meeting of the Economics Committee was also of an exploratory nature.

When the heads of the Empire delegations meet to-morrow afternoon it is understood that foreign affairs will be the chief topic.—Reuter.

WARSHIPS ARRIVE

H.M.S. Adventure returned to Hongkong from Sandakan yesterday, and the U.S.S. Asheville arrived in port from Swatow. The French gunboat Argus left for Canton yesterday.

WEATHER MAY KEEP AVIATORS FROM H.K.

Divine Wind Heads For Hanoi

May Hop Direct To Formosa

Weather conditions along the coast of China may deprive Hongkong of the opportunity of welcoming Masaki Inuma and Kenji Tsukagoshi, the Japanese fliers who, in their monoplane Divine Wind, created the record of 90 hours from Tokyo to London.

They arrived at Rangoon at 11.40 a.m. yesterday on the return flight to Japan, and took off for Hanoi at 7 o'clock this morning. They are expected at the French airport late this afternoon, and will not leave until to-morrow morning.

A cablegram from Tokyo this morning stated that the airmen had been instructed not to land at Hongkong unless weather conditions are unfavourable for flying direct from Hanoi to Taihoku (Formosa). It is possible, therefore, that the two airmen will pass in the vicinity of Hongkong at 11 a.m. to-morrow without landing.

Their present flight from Croydon to Tokyo is a leisurely one and no attempt is being made to break the record. (Continued on Page 4.)

FIERCE FIGHT FOR MOUNTAIN KEY POSITION

Insurgents Bombarding Government Lines

Madrid, May 18.

While the Insurgents are still pressing their offensive against Bilbao, the Government troops are active in the Province of Leon, among the mountains separating the province from Asturias.

The Insurgents have launched a land and sea attack against the Government positions on Mount Jata, which slopes to the sea between Bermeo and Andracas, barring the Insurgent advance in much the same way that Mount Sollube did, a few miles to the south-east.

While a cloud of bombers showered explosive on the Government positions, the cruiser Almirante Cervera shelled them from the sea; and after an intense bombardment in preparation, Insurgent infantry started to attack up the slope. According to reports, this attack, like others, was repulsed with heavy losses.

Singapore Thrives On Industries

Britain Determined To Stay In East

Editor Discusses Malaya's Future

Malaya is a country which has all her eggs in two baskets. These two baskets are tin and rubber, and both are of vital importance to countries which are preparing for war.

"As the whole world is arming to the teeth, it is not surprising that it is seeking these commodities especially tin, in large quantities. As a result, prices have skyrocketed to dizzy heights and rubber, which fell to two pence per pound during the worst period of the depression, is now in the region of a shilling, while tin, which dropped to the region of £100 per ton, is now up around £250.

Mr. F. Stefani, editor of the Singapore Free Press opened an interview yesterday with these remarks. He passed through Hongkong by the Dollar liner President Lincoln, en route to Japan and the United States on his honeymoon.

But while Malaya is enjoying an unprecedented wave of prosperity, the veteran newspaper sees "a fly in the ointment." "Everyone in Malaya is making hay while the sun shines," he said. "While they are making hay, however, the European community is forgetting the great bogey of Japanese competition. Malaya's experience of this competition is similar to that of other parts of the East. She has tried to meet this competition with such measures as textile quotas.

"Where Japanese economic penetration is going to end I cannot say, but Britons, fortunately, have a genius for solving their problems by compromise, and possibly they will resort to this method in Singapore in the present case.

SINGAPORE FORTRESS

The whole world, of course, is interested in Singapore as a fortress, but the visitor will look in vain for bristling guns and other warlike signs, though enormous sums have been poured out in defence and the naval base, now nearing completion, will be one of the finest in the world. "Considerable importance is also attached to aerial defence and there are now four service aerodromes and a magnificent new civil aerodrome, costing nearly £1,000,000. This can accommodate both land and sea planes.

The garrison strength has also been increased considerably and with the ring of fortifications, both on the island itself and the small neighbouring islands, they should render Singapore impregnable to any direct attack.

Surprise Attack

The Insurgents delivered a surprise attack on Espinosa de Beldia, near the border, between Santander and Burgos, but Loyalists report that a counter-attack forced the Insurgent forces to retreat with heavy losses.—United Press.

International Appeal

London, May 18. The Non-Intervention Committee has decided to appeal to both sides in Spain to renounce aerial bombing. The Committee "intends to take other steps in an effort to humanise the civil war that has already claimed half a million lives.

Further directions in which tentative steps have already been taken include the control of Spanish capital and assets, and a scheme to prohibit the departure from territories of signatory nations to the Non-Intervention Pact of non-Spanish people whose activities might prolong or embitter the conflict.—Reuter.

Swing To Right

Valencia, May 18. After a conference with President Azana which lasted far into the night, the Socialist Prime Minister, Senor Juan Negrin, announced he had formed the following Cabinet:

Prime Ministers and Minister of Finance, Senor Negrin;
Minister of Defence, Senor Jose Giral;
Minister of Justice, Senor Prieto, a Basque;
Minister of Interior, Senor Manuel Irujo;
Minister of Education, Senor Julian Zugazagoitia;
Minister of Agriculture, Senor Jesus Hernandez;
Minister of Public Works, Senor Vicente Uribe;
Minister of Labour, Senor Giner de los Rios;
Minister of Public Welfare, Senor Jaime Ayguade.

It is notable the Government is virtually the same as the last in political colour and texture, save that the radical C.N.T. is not represented. It has thus swung to the Right. Well-informed quarters do not consider it strong, however, though the extreme political elements are temporarily satisfied. They were particularly anxious to see Senor Largo Caballero, the former Prime Minister.—United Press.

Government's Task

Valencia, May 18. The particular task of the new Spanish Government will be to "unify command" of the military operations against the Rebels, as well as control the economic life of the country.

This Government statement was made shortly after announcement of the formation of the new Cabinet. The statement adds that the new Government deplores the absence of Trade Union organisations in the Cabinet.—Reuter.

WELCOME.. to the NEW ARRIVAL

By our Nursery Expert

"That's why we don't see so much of Mother."

MOST mothers, deep within themselves, experience a definite sinking feeling when they find themselves faced with the return to normal conditions after the arrival of a new baby.

Of course, it's marvellous having baby, and what could be more adorable than that bundle of loveliness lying in the cot, but "Will the dainty girl find the work too much with a baby in the house?" and "Does it really take the whole of a mother's time to look after one baby?" and "How am I to be sure that baby is not developing 'something' half the time?"

Please write to me if you have some special problems which confront you when you first return to normal duties with your baby.

Perhaps you feel that the worries are so small that people may laugh at you for entertaining them at all, but I can assure you that I shall not laugh, because I know full well how anxious one can get unless one has a little reassurance.

This week I am dealing with some "New Baby" problems, but let me know if yours does not happen to be among them.

Folding the Squares

I have been told that there is a better way of putting on nursery squares than to fold them in a triangle. How does one go about the other method?—Sentry.

FOLD the square in two down the centre; next fold back one-third of this doubled layer, making four thicknesses, on which baby should lie. Bring up the other third between the legs and pin at each side, making a neat little pair of pants and saving a wedge between the legs, which serves no useful purpose. It is a wise plan to reinforce the vest with strips of broad tape at each side on to which the nappies can be pinned.

Chafed Skin

My three-months-old baby is getting very chafed, though I change him frequently and always apply cream and powder. How can I keep his skin in better condition?—Dublin.

THE skin should be thoroughly well washed with warm water and a mild soap when you attend to baby. Lather on the soap, then rub it into the skin thoroughly until it has all been absorbed; do not wash it off.

After that apply ointment if there is any sign of chafing; otherwise it will be sufficient to dust well with a good nursery powder. Never use both ointment and powder as this merely chokes the pores.

Fears a Squint

I am terribly worried about baby, as I am sure that she has a squint. We don't notice it in the day-time much, but when I go to her at night her eyes look very peculiar. I have had the doctor to her, but he states that he can find nothing wrong. Should I take her to a specialist?—Hester B.

THERE should be no need for this. Probably you switch on the electric light at night or else take a light to the cot-side.

All babies squint when a bright light falls straight on the pupils of the eyes, but this is only because the muscles of accommodation are not yet strong enough to stand the light. She should outgrow this completely as time goes on.

Avoid strong lights and remember that cot or pram should, face away from strong sunlight. Pasted shades are better than white for pram-covers, as white creates a glare; in summer it is a good plan to have the pram-screen lined with green.

Diet for Mother

I had plenty of milk for Baby while I was in bed, but since I got up ten days ago it has begun to diminish rapidly. Baby is very fretful in consequence. I am eating all the nourishing food I can and drinking nearly a quart of milk daily, apart from milk-bottlings.—Crewe.

I FEEL that, by taking so much food, for large amounts of food do not increase the milk supply. You should get all the rest you can, stop worrying and drink lots of water between your meals. If you have milk drinks, make them with half milk and half water.

Have three normal meals daily, a cup of thin gruel about mid-morning.

COOKING CABBAGES

VEGETABLE cookery is really worth taking trouble about. Let's start off with cabbage.

We hear a lot nowadays about steaming vegetables; this is an excellent method on occasion, but I cannot recommend it for cabbage because it brings out an unpleasantly strong flavour. The two best methods I know are the German, where the water in which the cabbage is boiled is used to make a sauce; and the French, where the cabbage is blanched and finished off in a casserole.

German Way

THIS is a good way of cooking curly kale, savoy, sprout tops, winter and spring cabbage.

Well wash the kale or cabbage in salted water. Throw it into boiling salted water, barely enough to cover. Use some of the green outside leaves as well as the heart; they contain the most nourishment and give a good colour to the dish. Cook till tender without a lid. If you wish to avoid the strong smell spreading all over the house try the old trick of throwing in a crust of bread with the cabbage.

Meanwhile, three or four minutes before the cooking is completed, start making your sauce in a separate pan. Melt 1oz. lard (or any pork or bacon fat) over the fire and fry a small chopped onion in it to a light golden colour. Stir in (off the fire) 1oz. flour and work smooth.

Return to fire and add a little of the water in which the cabbage has been cooked, stir well and add more water as the sauce thickens. When it has reached a consistency, not too thick and not too thin. Add seasoning and a sprinkling of grated nutmeg. While it is simmering, turn the cabbage or kale into a colander and put it under the

and an extra drink such as I have described last thing at night. Then I believe that things will go better. Write to me for my Nursing Mother chart if you would care to have it.

Baby Sneezes

My baby often sneezes during the night, but shows no sign of cold in the morning.—Fellistown.

I SHOULD be inclined to blame the blankets; small particles of wool from blanket or sheet can easily get into the nostrils and set up irritation which causes a sharp fit of sneezing. I advise a top-sheet for this reason; it should turn down well over the blanket. This plan is also helpful with babies and small children who show a tendency to blanket-sucking.

Belt or Binders?

My four-weeks-old baby is not wearing binders, but my sister-in-law tells me that this is all wrong and that she should at least have knitted body-belts. Is this correct?—Rothsay.

AT four months there is really no need for either belts or binders. Anything tight round baby's tummy is liable to weaken the abdominal muscles and to set up indigestion and constipation.

Your baby should be perfectly right as she is, provide the vest fits down neatly into the nursery square.

Too Much Food

Baby, aged three months, is very fretful. I read recently of a baby of eight weeks who had already cut a tooth and I wonder if mine can be thinking of his teeth? yet. He weighed 7lb. at birth and now weighs 14lb. He is bottle-fed.—Pitsea.

I FEEL that over-feeding is definitely the cause of your baby's troubles, for he is gaining very rapidly. When rapid gains are accompanied by restlessness and sickness, you can be fairly certain that baby is taking more than he can digest. Cut down the feeds both in quantity and in strength and give him plenty of cool boiled water in teaspoonfuls between his feed times.

If he gains about 5 ounces every week for the next three or four months you may rest assured that he is making satisfactory progress.

DEVILLED DISHES HOT NEWS

THERE is nothing better than a devil for tempting lost appetite.

Luckily there are scores of them, from breakfast's devilled chicken legs or kidneys to the small devilled tit-bits which are swallowed at cocktail parties.

THE devil in every case is very similar, appearing usually in the form of paste or butter. There is also a dry devil, which is really nothing more than a sprinkling of cayenne or other peppers.

Devil Paste

THE blending of devil paste is a ticklish matter. It should not be made so hot that the eyes are flooded with tears preparatory to the top of the head being blown off. On the other hand, excessive mildness is a worse fault than that.

One must taste it in the making to try to strike a combination which promises to be hot without being offensive.

TAKING an ounce of butter as the basis, you work into it some dry or made mustard, black pepper, cayenne, curry powder or paste, chutney juice or finely chopped chutney, salt, and a squeeze of lemon juice. The whole should be made into a smooth paste.

Or, if you don't want to use all these ingredients, you can pick and choose among them according to taste, or add a little white pepper and French mustard.

HOT LEGS
IN devilling chickens' legs for breakfast, it is best to do it overnight. For one thing, it saves time in the morning, and, for another, it helps the devil to get into the meat.

You should not only spread it over the surface, but make deep scores in the meat and insert some of the paste in these.

THE next morning you merely make the legs thoroughly hot under the grill or in a fireproof dish in the oven.

But they must be thoroughly hot, and this applies to devilled toast, biscuits, sardines, whitebait and all the rest of the tribe.

DEVIL FISH
WHITBAIT is the simplest of the lot, and makes a good fish course for lunch or dinner.

Put the fish into a frying-basket and plunge them into boiling fat. When they are crisp, but not brown, take them out, sprinkle them with black pepper or cayenne and return them to the fat until they are nicely coloured. Serve with cut lemon and brown bread and butter.

FOR devilled kidneys you split them open and grill them in the usual way, but just before they have finished grilling you put dabs of devilled butter on them.

You can make this with an ounce of butter, half a teaspoonful of curry powder, the same of finely chopped chutney, cayenne to taste, and a dash of lemon juice.

A good stick of butter goes very well on a grilled steak in place of the more usual maitre d'hotel butter.

SNACKS at the Bar
STRIPS of anchovy mackerel neat little snacks for cocktail parties if they are sprinkled with cayenne, wrapped in thin puff paste, and baked in the oven or fried in deep fat.

Sardines, too, can be skinned, spread with a mixture of made mustard and cayenne, egg-and-breadcrumbed, fried and served on narrow fingers of fried bread.

Water biscuits or Bath bikkies are ideal for devilling. They are merely spread with a devilled butter and much thoroughly heated in the oven, and a little grated cheese can be sprinkled on as well.

An old and simple method is to soften the biscuits slightly in warm water, sprinkle them with cayenne, and bake them crisp in the oven.

Something Every Mother Should Teach Her Child.

Regularity of the daily habit is of the utmost importance for every child—neglect of this essential health precaution is the cause of much sickness among children and greatly hinders their development.

Knowing this, as every mother must, she should not only impress upon her child at its early years the necessity for regularity, but assure herself that nothing is allowed to interfere with the daily function.

Over-eating, too many sweets, and insufficient exercise are the most usual causes of stomach and bowel troubles in little children, for it is these that upset regularity. When a laxative is necessary, and even the healthiest child needs one at times, Baby's Own Tablets are just the medicine needed. Devilled especially for the use of children, they are pleasant in taste, mild in action, and altogether safe, as they are guaranteed to contain no nuxetone or opiate. They quickly correct infantile indigestion, colic, constipation, check diarrhoea, cool feverishness, relieve colds and croup, expel worms, allay teething pains almost as if by magic. Your chemist can supply Baby's Own Tablets.

GRACE WILSON'S NEWS FOR WOMEN New Hat Grip: Cook Tells Secrets: Device for Knitters

EARLY summer hats tend to show changes, but they still call attention to the coiffure to an extent that on neat hair-dressing depends success in wearing them.

More scraps of straw, ribbon, or lace, top-heavy with flowers and trimmings, are not only smart but entirely becoming.

In place of crowns on some of the wide-brimmed hats you find posies of flowers held by folds of velvet ribbon so that the hair is partially revealed. The brims themselves sweep up on either side in a new line as though a puff of wind were blowing them upwards.

But they are held fast by a new-type hat grip invented by Madame Agnes, of Paris.

It lies from back to front of a hat inside, with a short extra point to grip the back of the head, and replaces bandeaux and elastics which are inclined to ruffle the set of the curls.

The grips are flexible and cling most naturally to the head.

In this collection of hats rich colour combinations are used.

A maize-coloured bask straw was trimmed with green ribbon and multi-coloured field flowers.

Violets and fuchsia-coloured velvet ribbon trimmed another eye-catching straw.

The back view of a white gros-grain beret, trimmed with blue, showed that the crown was heart-shaped. And the cleverest little toque made of a twist of stiff blue moire ribbon had a tuft of lilacs of the valley posed right in front.

HERE is a practical little device for the knitter. It is an ordinary clip such as one would use for clipping letters together, to which is attached a narrow rule or blade six inches long, made in white composition.

The inches are clearly marked in black on one edge, and on the other the equivalent in the metric system.

The little knit-clip is fixed on the edge of a pattern book or leaflet so that the blade will rest directly underneath the line of the pattern one is following.

Using this device there is no danger of losing the place, no need to mark the book with pins or pencil, and a 6-inch measure is always at hand. Altogether a useful sixpennyworth.

HOLY "RELIC" NEARLY CAUSES DEATH

Paris, Apr. 25. A pious woman of Montpellier, Mlle. Theron, has nearly lost her life owing to the possession of an object which she and her neighbours believed to be a religious relic of great power.

A neighbour, Mlle. Ferron, attributed her persistent ill luck to spells cast upon her with the help of this "relic." She, therefore, attacked Mlle. Theron with a hatchet, demanding that the relic should be surrendered to her so that she could burn it.

Mlle. Theron succeeded in snatching the hatchet from Mlle. Ferron, but was knocked down by her. Mlle. Ferron, trampled on Mlle. Theron and struck her over the head with a kettle.

Mlle. Ferron then went away, washed the blood off her hands and clothes, and made her way to the police station. There she gave herself up.

Mlle. Theron is still in a critical condition.

Man-Eating Wolves Kill 13 Children

Lucknow, Apr. 21. A pack of man-eating wolves which terrorised villages near here, killing 13 children in a fortnight, has been dispersed.

The hungry pack, forced from the jungle by storms, met with hardly any resistance as the villagers have no arms except bamboo spears. The wolves became very daring and carried off children from the fields in the presence of their parents. Villagers became afraid to stir from their huts.

The Zemendar, moved by their sufferings, organised a posse of 200, including armed constables. After an exciting chase the leader of the wolf pack was killed and the pack dispersed.

"You have every right to be proud, Mrs. Evans. I can see a wonderful improvement since you took my advice about 'California Syrup of Figs'."

"I could tell from what you said that there must be toxin in their systems. When children are cross and peevish and lose interest in their food and games, you can be practically sure it's an accumulation of poisonous matter upsetting their insides. I've seen it so often just cleanse the system in a safe, natural way, children go ahead like wildfire."

"But do be sure always to give them 'California Syrup of Figs.' It's a natural fruit laxative which safely cleanses and purifies the bloodstream and creates a fine healthy appetite. 'Keep on with the weekly dose of 'California Syrup of Figs.' Mrs. Evans. It's a laxative for young and old. As a matter of fact I use it myself and advise you to do it for the whole family."

Be sure to get the genuine "California Syrup of Figs."

Academy Of 1,150 Students

May 18.

HIGHER education in the tactics and principles of the Chinese Soviet Party and the Red Army is provided in one of the largest and most unique institutions of the Chinese Soviet Government, the "Chinese Peoples' Anti-Japanese Military and Political Academy," in Yennanfu.

This school, usually called by its abbreviated name, "Hung Ta," or "Red Academy," has an enrolment of 1,150 students from inside and outside the Soviet areas, while another 1,000 students are enrolled in the branch institution, the Red Army Infantry School.

Girl and boy students from every province in China and from Malaya, Korea, Manchuria, French Indo-China and elsewhere come to the Red Academy seeking further political education in preparation for the mass movement of resistance to "further Japanese aggression." Hopei, Szechwan, Hunan, Kiangsi, Kiangsu and Shensi provinces have provided the largest number of students, from other parts of China. Most of those enrolled are Red Army commanders but there are also 350 students from universities and middle schools elsewhere, including between 50 and 60 patriotic girl students who expect to become leaders in the national salvation movement, according to Lin Piao, Chancellor of the Academy.

A few enroll in the school because it is the fashion to do so, but they are soon disillusioned or weeded out. The students who are sincere and earnest students who gladly accept the hard work, the simple millet diet, the long hours of study and lecture, and the strict discipline.

The curriculum varies according to previous education and cultural standard of the students, but always centres on preparations for war against Japan. All classes study political science, fundamental problems of the Chinese revolution, mass organisation, party tactics. Special attention is devoted to the lower grades to partisan organisation and guerrilla warfare. The higher grades specialize in philosophy, political science, economics and battle strategy. Special study and discussion groups are organised to train specialists. In the Infantry School, mountain climbing, war tactics and engineering are emphasized, in addition to the subjects given all students.

Prerequisites for enrolment in the academy, for outside students, are minimum age of 18, middle school education or better, good health and sincere intentions. School hours are from 9 a.m. to noon daily, two-hour classes every alternate afternoon and much time also is required for the discussion and study groups conducted in various sections of the city. These groups study such problems as the trade union movement, recreational organisation, dramatics, fund-raising, public speaking, peasant problems, factory worker problems, military drill, horsemanship, care of the rifle and first aid.

The faculty comprises 17 full-time instructors and a large corps of part-time instructors drawn from the ranks of the Red Army, including Mao Tse-tung, Chu Teh, their wives, Kai Feng, Commander of Food Supplies, Po Ku, former President of the Soviet Government, Northwest Bureau, Wu Liang-ping, former Chinese minister to Great Britain, Tai Shu-fan, Commissioner of the Interior, Chen Kang, a former Kuomintang general, and others equally experienced in fighting, agitation and other communist work.

The present class began in January, 1937, and will graduate in August of this year, completing eight months of intensive training. Fifty per cent. of the students are between 23 and 30 years of age, 25 per cent. are over 30 and 25 per cent. are between 18 and 23. When graduated, they will work in the Red Army, in the Soviet districts, with the Manchurian Volunteers and in all other parts of China.

In the Chinese areas occupied already by the Japanese Army, they will organize secret societies among the peasants in readiness for spring into action on the signal, and also organize strikes and other troubles in the Kuomintang areas they will no longer press the class struggle but will devote their efforts towards awakening the masses to the need of preparing a defensive war against Japan.

The director of the school is Commander Lin Piao, a graduate of the Whampoa Military Academy, participant in the Northern Expedition under General Chiang Kai-shek. In the Red Army, which he joined after the Nanchang Uprising, he rose through the ranks from fighter to squad, company, platoon, regiment, column and army front commander, and is a Member of the Soviet Military Council. His revolutionary career commenced in middle school.

THE HOMELY PRINCESS Kimonos—and Western Frocks

Beautiful Princess Chichibu of Japan, wife of the Emperor's brother, has accompanied the Prince on his visit to London for the Coronation.

The Prince and Princess reached England in the Queen Mary.

Between greetings and presentations, they found time to try on their Coronation robes, which have been made here on dummies constructed to measurements sent from Japan.

The Princess wore the neatest of Western costumes in pale turquoise blue, with a tiny black veil on her off-the-face matching hat, and a single long rope of pearls.

"FOND OF SPORT"

She is the cherry-blossom type of beauty portrayed by Japanese poets and painters, with pink and rose complexion, miniature features, hands and feet — and a happy smile.

"I do not occupy myself with matters outside my own home," she said to a New Chronicle reporter. "Japanese women prefer to leave these things to their husbands."

"But I am very fond of sports, especially tennis, which I play regularly."

Much of the Princess' time until the Coronation will go to her dressmaker and milliner.

WILL SEE THE DERBY

With the Prince, she will be attending the Derby, Ascot and other functions until they leave for the Continent in late June.

All her dresses will be made in London.

"But I have brought my kimonos with me and shall wear them informally," she added.

The Prince has the same frank, friendly manner. "We shall spend the 2½ months seeing Britain," he said.

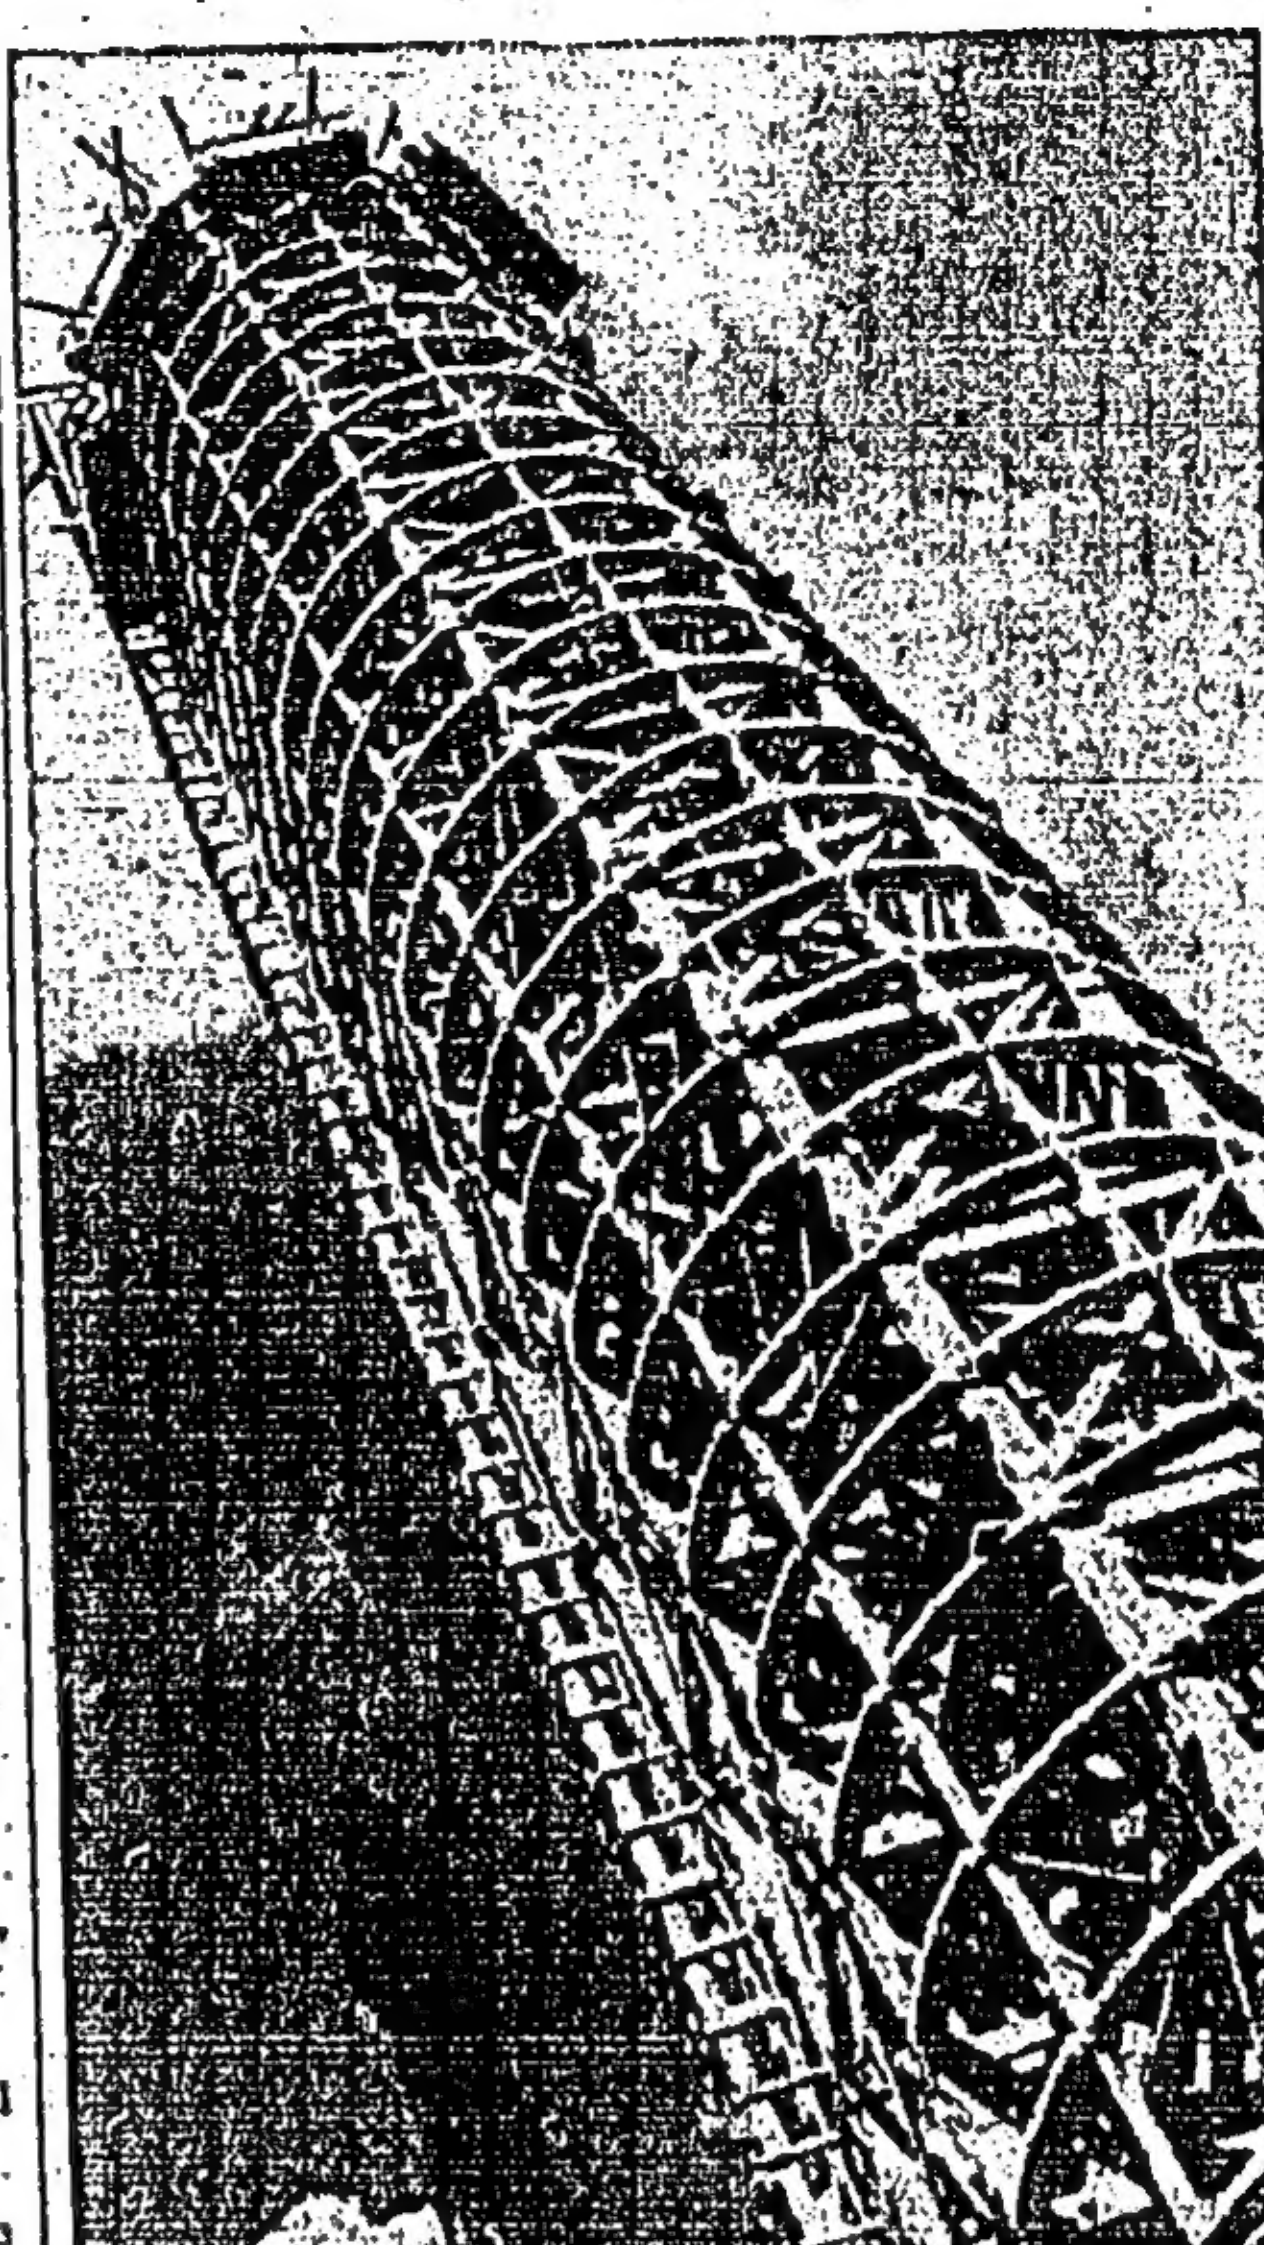

"The Princess and I are delighted to be here."

"Of course, we should like to see something of your problems and their solutions, too. If there is time."

"We intend to visit France, Germany and as many other countries as possible. I should like to visit every country in the world—if there were time."

In their hotel suite at Hove, locked away in its exquisite box, is the Order with which the Emperor has instructed his brother to invest the King and Queen.

No eye will see it until it is removed from its casket in the presence of the King and Queen on the day after the Coronation.

A TOWER IN PARIS—This striking picture was one obtained by a French cameraman when he turned his camera upward at one of the towers under construction at the International Exposition in Paris. This one is on the Palais de l'Alimentation, or Food Palace, to be opened soon.

U.S. Has a New "Sucker's List"

New York, May 1.

THOUSANDS of wealthy New York people, mystified by a sudden avalanche of personal letters and calls from night clubs, charity groups, and high-pressure salesmen, now know the truth.

Their names and addresses have been published in the world's most exclusive "sucker list" (people with plenty of money to spend)—a compilation of the 10,800 New York residents whose incomes during 1935 exceeded $3,000.

Published under the ironic title "Confidential," the neatly bound volume is liberally priced at $20, but still has found an eager market among cabaret owners, insurance firms, and other groups who are looking for well-to-do clients.

The enterprising publisher is Mr. John Ferguson, of Baltimore, who frankly declares that the Government was wrong in first making the list available by the publication of private income-tax returns.

BRITAIN GUARDS SECRET OF NEW GAS PROTECTOR

London, Apr. 21.

The existence of a secret form of gas mask which will be distributed to troops and civilians in Great Britain on the day a war is declared was disclosed by Dr. H. Dolence Woodruffe, county director of Oxfordshire branch of the British Red Cross Society, in an address at Oxford.

Dr. Woodruffe made the revelation in replying to the Cambridge critics who have declared that gas-proof rooms and respirators suggested by the Home Office are useless.

"There have been reports of work done by what has been described as a group of Cambridge scientists," he said. "They have produced rather amazing statements that gas-proof rooms as suggested by the Home Office are totally inadequate, and that the official respirator is completely useless against mustard gas."

"The answer to the second criticism is that the respirator as it will be issued to civilians and troops is 100 per cent. protection against any gas that is known. The gas service container which will be used in the event of a war is only in the possession of a very few people, and it will not be issued to troops and civilians until the day war is declared."

BLOW TO PRIVACY

It is a sad blow to thousands of New York's elite, many of whom had for years gone to great pains to keep clear of the annoyances and financial pitfalls to which "sucker list" members are liable, successfully concealing the exact amount of their incomes and jealously guarding private addresses and telephone numbers.

Now all is told in the little black booklet "Confidential," which, in its limited market, promises to be one of the "best sellers."

HIS MONKEYSHIP HOLDS COURT

Allahabad, Apr. 21.

Lawyers and litigants entered the Indian court at Moradabad and found a monkey gravely occupying the bench. He was not content with sitting in the presiding judge's chair, but whisked to run the court.

He picked up the judge's pen and banged it on the desk. When attorneys tried to dislodge him, His Monkeyship spilled ink over the judge's papers and, grinning and chattering, leaped out a window and ran for the jungle.

Inventors Spending Sleepless Nights

London, Apr. 19.

British inventors, seeking to aid the country's defence programme, are spending sleepless nights experimenting with first one thing than another.

So far, two suggestions have come to light. One inventor has suggested a giant bellows to create high winds that would impede movement of enemy airplane, and another thinks that shells filled with feathers that would clog the enemy plane's motor intakes would be dandy.

FINE ORGANISATION

Shocking as Monday night's disaster was, there is one aspect of the affair that stands out from the background of horror in such a way as to make comment inevitable. We refer to the work of rescue. Such tragedies as this, wholly unpredictable, which come with sickening suddenness, might very well throw into confusion the ordinarily smooth-working mechanism of authority. But those observers who were first on the scene remarked with what cool courage—for it took courage to face that shambles—Chinese and Indian constables, European officers and civilians equal to such tasks, went about the business of succour. Conspicuous at the beginning were a Chinese and European doctor who methodically went from one to another of the pitiful bodies in sight, doing what little they could. When the two or three police constables and European officers who were first on duty were reinforced by comrades hurriedly summoned to the scene, there was no wild commotion; they were calm and efficient, swift without rushing, easily handling an inquisitive but for the most part helpful crowd. The ambulance crews probably had the most gruesome task. They carried it out commendably. The whole organisation was excellent, from the point of view of the observer, and, we feel, deserving of commendation. The voluntary assistance from Japanese officials of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, their polite calm even under the barrage which newspapermen threw at them, the manner in which American seamen and British bluejackets tried to lend a hand, the willing coolies, strangely unexcited in this crisis, brought a feeling of satisfaction for the fundamental sympathy that binds all creeds; colours and classes here in such emergencies. But with our gratitude and admiration to those who played their part in rescue goes our deepest sympathy for those bereaved and injured and a shocked consciousness of lives destroyed by what we cannot call, in decency, "an act of God."

STALIN'S RUTHLESS PURGE

Paving the Way for the "Most Democratic" Constitution in the World

By A

Moscow Correspondent

FOR NEARLY a year now the Bolshevik high command has been engaged in a relentless, bitter, and thorough campaign to wipe out all the important elements of opposition left after the great Communist Party purge of a decade ago.

Indeed, instead of diminishing, the "drive" has recently been increased—largely as the result of Stalin's explicit instructions to the Party Plenum at the secret meeting in the Kremlin last month. The "drive" is all part of the programme to prepare the country for the promulgation of the new and "most democratic" Constitution in the world, which is to seal the advertised "new freedom" here through the inauguration of the secret and equal ballot for all adults. The first elections may be held late this year. By that time there probably will be few people left either in or out of power who might cause the Government or Party embarrassment at the polls.

Stalin could scarcely have been more plain in his address to the Party, which was made public a month later. He said:

"A couple of words on the wreckers, diversionists, spies, and so on. I think that by now it is clear to all that the present wreckers and diversionists, whatever the flag they may hide themselves under—whether Trotskyite or Bukharinite—have long ceased to represent a political tendency in the labour movement. They have become transformed into an unprincipled band of professional wreckers, diversionists, spies, and murderers devoid of any ideas.

"Naturally these gentlemen will have to be crushed and uprooted without mercy as enemies of the working class, as traitors to our fatherland. This is clear, and does not require any further explanation."

The heresy hunt naturally spread far afield after such an intimation, and the Party and the Kremlin are now busy removing and liquidating all persons who ever followed the banner of Trotsky or in any other way opposed Stalin, regardless of whether they have or have not since repented. The dismissal and arrest of Henrich Yagoda, former head of the O.G.P.U., and the degradation of the Assistant Commissar of Foreign Affairs, Nikolai Krestinsky, are only two of the better known cases thus far to receive publicity. In the background, however, the secret police are working with extreme diligence, and exercising every care to root out all opposition once and for all.

Yagoda has disappeared for a while into the oblivion of some unnamed

Soviet gaol. Nor will he reappear until his "confession" to whatever charges may have been brought against him paves the way for another "exhibition trial." The rumour is that Yagoda has been charged with embezzlement of State funds. This could be made a capital offence.

Since his arrest, tongues long stilled by Yagoda's extremely effective secret organisation have wagged freely; and it is now said that Yagoda and many of his henchmen spent lavishly at Moscow's bigger stores; that Yagoda had a garage full of expensive foreign motor-cars for his own use, and that he and his friends lived far beyond their means at the expense of the State.

Such probably was the case, and one which it certainly would not be difficult for the Government to prove. It does not represent the real reason for Yagoda's removal and arrest. Yagoda, once standing very close to Stalin—who trusted him greatly—fell because he had failed to keep a sufficiently close eye on known opposition elements, including many of those executed at the result of the last two big political trials in Moscow.

It now is whispered that Yagoda not only failed to detect the many alleged counter-revolutionary plots, but deliberately failed to detect them because he was secretly in sympathy with some of the men involved. If that is true Yagoda probably will be shot, because no such disloyalty on the part of men in trusted places can be tolerated.

The case of Krestinsky is that of degrading a man who once was a Trotskyite. His removal from the Commissariat of Foreign Affairs has given rise to the belief that Communists are determined to enforce the slogan "Once a Trotskyite always a Trotskyite." They have ample historical background for inaugurating such a slogan, because the old Bolsheviks, as has been shown, rarely really repent.

Most of those executed here since August had sided with Trotsky, and then openly and abjectly recanted, renounced Trotsky and asked for Party reinstatement. It will be recalled that Trotsky's brother-in-law, Kamenov, in his famous last statement in Court, voluntarily declared that he had been given three chances, and could expect no further mercy. Karl Radek likewise branded himself as a "double-dealer." He many times renounced Trotsky prior to his arrest, but later "confessed" that all the time he had been in touch with Trotsky and was plotting with him to overthrow the Stalin regime.

The present heresy hunt is going forward under the very able direction of Nikolai Yezhov, Yagoda's successor as Commissar of Home Affairs, and chief of the secret police—now officially known as the N.K.V.D. instead of the O.G.P.U.

Yezhov, 41 years of age, is of slight build, youthful in appearance, a man with whom there is scarcely likely to develop the trouble attributed to Yagoda. He has worked in close touch with Stalin for more than fifteen years in Party affairs, and his loyalty to him is said to be beyond question.

STALIN SPEAKS

Already, in six months, he has caused an upheaval in the political police ranks. By the sweeping removal of Yagoda's henchmen, he has completely changed the command of this organisation. Most of the old officials have suffered the fate of Yagoda, and vanished into obscure gaols, there to languish until they confess or are exiled.

The defection of once highly trusted men, including the three former Vice-Commissars involved in the January conspiracy trial, shows that the Bolsheviks are not lacking in reasons for the present thorough purge in Party and official ranks. In addition to these men, hundreds, probably many thousands, of minor conspirators have been detected and arrested. Their influence was widespread. Already the Government has found it necessary to reorganise several commissariats and key industrial branches in order to liquidate the influence of the "wreckers." Production in many important departments is still far below schedule because of the disruptive influence of former chiefs, or the normal demoralisation that followed in an industry when everyone in authority was suddenly removed from his post.

In fact, as I stated at the outside, this wholesale liquidation the opposition is all part of Stalin's general programme of preparing the country for the promulgation of the New Constitution. An important part of this programme, but one which has received less publicity, is the humanisation and democratisation of the Communist Party itself, which had become arrogant in its relations with unimportant Party members and with the people in general.

Party officials now are under the stern injunction to clean up the bureaucracy and suppress high-handed tactics in the Party, and to give the Party membership a voice in all affairs. The secret election of officers has been ordered. Boastfulness and aloofness toward the masses are now under ban. Everyone is urged to practise "criticism and self-criticism," in order to expose and correct all flaws in the Party.

Are you a Bore?

by James Douglas

DOES a bore during his slow march through leagues of yawns ever for even one blinding second catch a flashing glimpse of the truth about himself? Does he ever suspect himself of being a bore?

In order to irritate you into attention, let me assume that you are a bore. You may be a man or woman, for there are bores of each sex.

I invite you to ask yourself this question:—

Am I a bore? Do I know when I am a bore?

I have searched the voluminous annals of boredom, but I have failed to discover any record of a bore who asked himself these questions or tried to answer them.

One of the greatest bores who ever bored mankind was Rousseau, but although he wrote his "Confessions," he did not betray any consciousness of being a national and indeed an international bore.

George Moore was a bore. At least he was treated as a bore in Ireland, if not in England.

The Irish export most of their bores, and as a rule they become eminent in exile.

Most politicians are bores. Boredom is their trade. But even when a bore empties the House of Commons I doubt whether he guesses that he is boring it.

It is true that a famous Victorian statesman yawned in the middle of one of his boring speeches. But he yawned because he was boring himself, not because he was boring his audience.

THE bore who bores himself is rare. Bore is an imposed condition. Bore is only a body else.

They are egotists with thick skins, who possess the power of silencing everybody else.

It is strange that the sudden silence which they produce does not dismay them.

But the perfect bore is never silenced by silence. If you find yourself voluble in an oasis of silence, beware!

The anecdotal bore is almost irrepressible. His anecdotes are usually stale, but he does not see the glaze of weariness which films over the glass eyeballs of his victims.

The late Harry Higgins was a bore-slayer. He told me this story of a bore he slew by asking a murderous question.

The bore was a big game-hunter. He was telling an interminable story about a man-eating tiger that was about to pounce upon him after he had fired his last cartridge.

"There was I," he said, "with the tiger behind me and a yawning chasm in front of me!"

"Excuse me for interrupting you," said Harry in his most audible whisper, "but may I ask whether the chasm was yawning before you got there?"

THERE was once a devastating bore who pestered the late Sir Augustus Harris, the impresario of Drury Lane Theatre, to propose him as a candidate for the Green Room Club.

"Drurylanus," at last consented. He seldom attended the meetings of the committee, but on the day of the election he arrived early and begged

There is, of course, no reason to think that Stalin fears any Party reverses at the autumn elections, because, under the Constitution, such is not possible. Stalin made it clear last November at the Congress of the Soviets, that there was room here for but one political party—the Communist Party—and the Constitution provides machinery for candidates who are Party members or approved by Party organisations.

It is true the Constitution says that priests can vote and can stand as candidates, but scrutiny of the Constitution shows that it will be difficult for their names to appear on the election ballot papers. Whatever opposition or disputes arise—say, for instance, in respect of what names shall appear on the ballot papers—this will naturally occur before the elections themselves. Probably in many cases electors will be offered a list of three or four candidates to select from at the polls, but these candidates will be "as like as peas in a pod," because they will all be sponsored by the same groups, and represent the same political views and tendencies.

36 OGPU CHIEFS SENT TO OWN JAIL

Exile For Stalin Executioner

Warsaw, May 5.
DICTATOR STALIN, with his one-mighty ex-Ogpu chief Yagoda safe in a cell of the Lubyanka Prison, to-day launched a new purge to hunt down Yagoda's former friends in the Ogpu secret police.

So far thirty-six of the highest Ogpu officers have been rounded up and put into cells of the Lubyanka, where they once ruled. Twenty-one others have been punished by transfers to small posts in the provinces.

Among the transferred is Peter-son, who, as chief of the Ogpu execution squad, commanded a firing party which shot the old Bolsheviks Zinoviev, Kamenev, Piatkov and many others.

He has been banished as a minor political official to Tiflis, Stalin's Georgian homeland. Yagoda's former adjutant, Semjonov, has been transferred to Kiev.

THREE-HOUR PARLEY

Nicolai Yeshov, Yagoda's successor as Ogpu chief, to-day had a three-hour conference with Stalin in the Kremlin.

He left with full powers to stamp out ruthlessly all pro-Yagoda elements in the Ogpu police and the Ogpu army, which totals more than 100,000 men and exist alongside the Red Army under war lord Voroshilov.

On his return to the Lubyanka headquarters, Yeshov was told that Yagoda had suffered a heart attack and was not fit to be grilled to-day.

Meanwhile Soviet Attorney-General Vishinsky, who sent Zinoviev and his companions to their deaths, stated that Yagoda's trial would take place in about a month's time.

He said: "It will be the most sensational trial yet."

Sterilising England's Unfit

GROWING OPINION IN FAVOUR

Westminster, May 1.
Sir Kingsley Wood, Minister of Health, believes that "opinion in this country is growing in favour of voluntary sterilisation."

He was replying to a House of Commons debate, in which members from each party supported voluntary sterilisation "for hereditary defects."

The request that the Government should give further consideration to the subject came first from a Conservative—Wing-Commander James. He was convinced that there is a tendency for defectiveness, mental and physical, to increase among our population. Our social services for instance, had preserved many of the weaker stocks from Nature's ruthless pruning.

Socialist, Liberal, and other Conservative speakers, agreed with Wing-Commander James, although a Socialist—Mr. D. G. Logan—opposed him for religious reasons.

NEED FOR CAUTION

There was a fairly general feeling that apart from the danger of spreading mental defects, it was desirable to prevent the misery which may encompass the possibly normal children of mentally defective parents.

The Minister of Health replied with caution, though he admitted that opinion is growing in favour of voluntary sterilisation. He agreed that the number of defectives increased as the general population increased, but he insisted that there is, in fact, no proof that the incidence of mental deficiency is rising in this country.

He reminded members, also, that opposition, particularly religious opposition, still remains, and that medical opinion is by no means unanimous about sterilisation.

Therefore, while showing his own sympathy for Wing-Commander James's proposal, he concluded that public opinion must be allowed ample time to develop.

The motion was withdrawn.

Wife Accuses Explorer

New York, Apr. 25.
Captain Charles Drummond Wood-yatt, English air ace, explorer, big game hunter and author was arrested to-day. His wife, formerly Miss Merna McKee Parks, of Greenwich Village, accuses him of bigamously marrying her last January.

Alfonso Gave $2,000,000 For Revolt

Paris, May 5.
Princess Eulalia, seventy-three-year-old aunt of ex-King Alfonso, revealed to me to-day—

1. That the revolution in Spain was planned two years before it started.

2. That Alfonso gave General Franco $2,000,000 for the cause.

The exiled Infanta received me in the Paris hotel where she has lived since the royal family were expelled in 1931.

'Believed In Franco'
"General Franco told the ex-King he could take Madrid in a fortnight. That was arranged in July 1934."

"We all believed in Franco. We gave money till it hurt, even selling our jewels."

"I still think Franco will win with the help of foreign Powers, but where are we now? The feeling against the monarchy would be too bitter for us to return for many years."

"The ex-King is as bewildered as any one else, and worried at the loss of his money. I am very sorry for General Franco. He is a nice intelligent boy and an idealist."

500 CARS FOR ROUND-AUSTRALIA RACE

It is expected that 500 cars will compete in the 10,000 miles Round-Australia contest, which is to be a feature of Australia's 150th Anniversary Celebration, next year.

There is to be one section for sporting motorists and one for tourists. In many places the route will follow primitive bush tracks where even wheel marks will be difficult to distinguish, and will lead across unbridged sandy water-courses, so it will be a test of real hazard, calling for bushcraft as well as motoring skill.

The race has been planned by Mr. Ion Idriess, the well-known Australian writer, whose books deal with the romantic interior which he knows and loves so well.—Austral News.

Dean's Leg Is Made 1½-Inches Longer

FIRST WALK FOR 3 MONTHS

Durham, May 5.
THE Dean of Durham, Dr. Alington, has had his right leg lengthened an inch and a half by an operation said to be unknown in this country.

It involved the cutting of the adductor muscle, which draws the limb towards the body, followed by mud baths for several weeks.

The operation was done in Budapest about three months ago, and to-day Dr. Alington was able to walk the length of the cathedral for the first time with the help of a stick.

He still has to have two hours' treatment every day, but he hopes to be able to climb to the top of the cathedral tower on May 29, when the choir will sing there and the relics of St. Cuthbert be displayed.

Dr. Alington is sixty-five years old. In spite of the fact that his right leg is shorter than his left, he was a good racket and fives player.

"GLASS AGE" WILL BE THE NEW ERA OF CIVILISATION

(By Dave Warner)
United Press Staff Correspondent

Raleigh, N.C.

Fingering a canvas-like scrap of "glass cloth", an engineer who has made and studied glass for many years predicted a new era of civilisation—the "Glass Age."

A. F. Greaves-Walker, head of the ceramic engineering department at North Carolina State College, took from his desk what appeared to be a spool of silvery, silk thread about the size of darning wool. It was soft as cat fur, pliable and strong. Scores of tiny threads intertwined to make the strand of "yam."

"That," he said, "is glass." And it was one of a dozen reasons for the professor's belief that the possibilities of substituting glass for other products "are almost unlimited."

A slab of "flexible glass" lay on the desk. It represents an outstanding new research achievement—providing, according to Greaves-Walker, that we can do practically anything to glass that we can to steel.

There were light, strong "glass bricks" of the type used widely in building homes and business structures; exhibits to show the use of glass for insulating houses against weather; for cooking at high temperatures; for home interiors, furniture and artistic store fronts.

Professor Greaves-Walker explained that glass thread is made by pouring melted glass through tiny holes, some as small as .00005 inch in diameter. Little streams of glass stretch downward and become "threads," then they are cooled by a thin oil spray. A single filament may be thousands of yards long.

Thread thus produced can be processed on ordinary textile machinery; woven into various grades of cloth; coloured, and sewn on the old family sewing machine.

Though, pliable and fireproof, the cloth may be heavy enough for a stage curtain or thin enough for a lady's dress. The professor said large curtains and other heavy glass cloth products are in such great demand that little more than experimentation has been accomplished in the complicated production of dress-type goods.

"I would say the big expansion in glass production will be along the lines of construction," Greaves-Walker said. "That's the field where tremendous tonnages will be used—for walls, interiors, and insulation."

"The new Hudson River tunnel in New York City is to be lined with glass of a tile type. Many buildings in New York's 1939 World Fair will be of glass."

It is easily possible, he said, that in a few years people will wear glass clothing, work, sleep, eat on glass furniture and live in glass houses.

POLAND WANTS JAMES

(By John MacAdam)

ALEX JAMES, Arsenal inside-left and football genius of the century, may go to Poland as a Soccer coach.

James, who has not yet re-signed for Arsenal, has been offered £225 a week by the Polish Football Association to coach their team next season.

The Arsenal star, who has several businesses in the south of England, is seriously considering the Polish offer.

On the other hand, Arsenal want him to sign as a player for next season and also to coach his activities as amateur coach, with the possibility of becoming a paid coach to the club when his playing days are over.

James, who was not included in the Arsenal team in an important match against Chelsea yesterday, despite the fact that he is fit and well, was front page news in one of the chief Polish newspapers.

Tsui & Choy In French Tennis Championship

Paris, May 18. The French tennis championships started at the Stade Roland Garros today, against Chelsea yesterday, despite the fact that he is fit and well, was front page news in one of the chief Polish newspapers.

Partnering together in the men's doubles, Tsui and Choy opposed Journu and Martin in the first round. The Chinese were actually leading four games to one in the first set when a terrific thunderstorm broke over the courts and prevented further play to-day.—Reuter.

HOW R.U.R. RECOVERED AND SAVED THE GAME

COLONY CHAMPS: IMPRESS MANILA

Manila, April 15.

Under the lights at Rizal Track, Football Stadium last night, a merry battle was waged in the opening of the eighth annual series between the Royal Ulster Rifles, champions of Hongkong, and local teams. The first battle found the University of Santo Tomas carrying the local colours and after the full regulation time was ended, the teams were deadlocked at 2 goals each, says the Manila Bulletin.

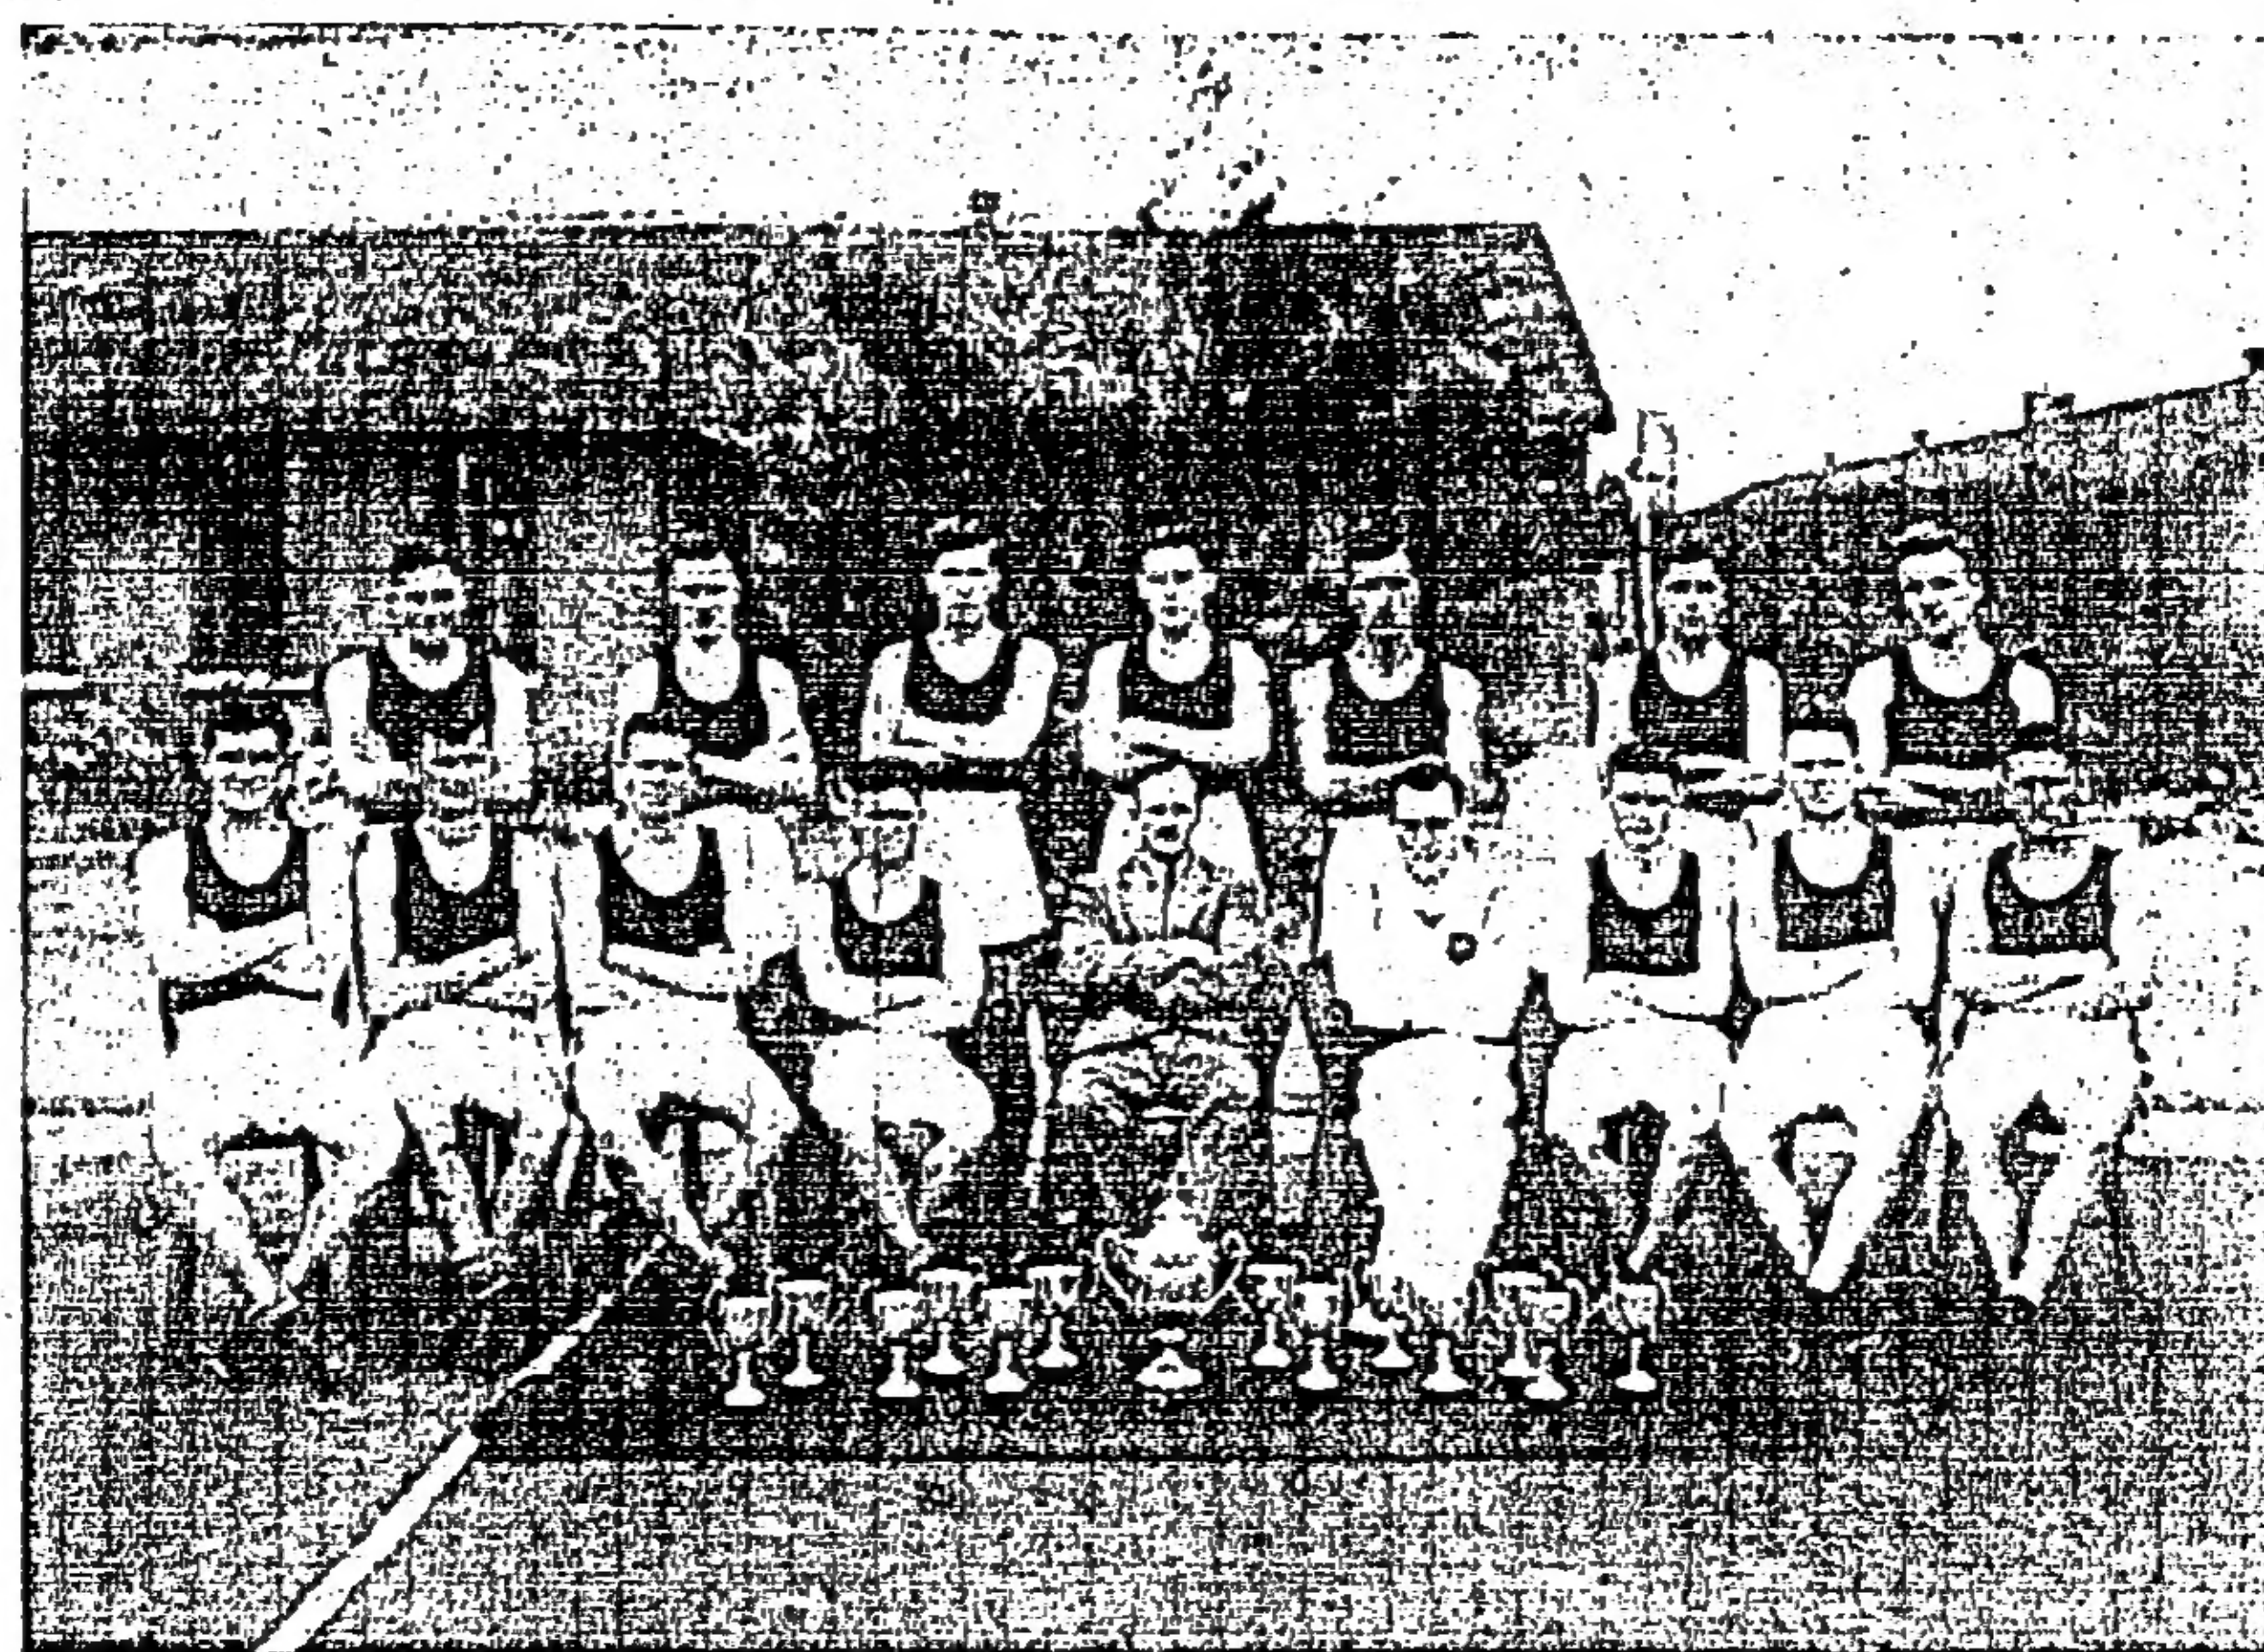

Those who are familiar with the game of football saw a new style exhibited by the invaders. Instead of the orthodox practice of kicking a goal kick as far out as possible, the British boys depended to a great extent on short forward kicks to one of their own players, thereby keeping control of the ball instead of merely taking a chance on one of their men being on the receiving end. They saw a short passing game, while though rugged at times, gave later promises of the brilliance that the British are noted for.

SOME OF THE CLEVEREST EVER. They saw some of the cleverest football that has been seen on a local field, a footwork that was one of the shining lights of the contest. Time and time again the Royal Ulster Rifles players kept control of the ball by the deft using of their feet. In their short passing they were invincible, but when this short game got beyond the 15 yard limit it broke up. It is possible that the lights may have had something to do with this, seeing it was the first time the newcomers had ever played under artificial lighting, but it is also a credit to the U.S.T. players that they were in front of the ball all through the first half and played very aggressively.

The kick-off was at 8.30 sharp and from the start U.S.T. took the offensive, scoring their first goal, and the first of the series, on a ball headed through by D. Pacheco on a kick in from right wing. For the remainder of the period the local team had control of the ball for the greater part of the play, this mainly due to the fact that the Royal Ulsters were very inaccurate in their kicking, shooting the ball directly to U.S.T. men on most occasions. With U.S.T. still outshining the British, especially in defensive play, the half ended with a score of 1-0 in favour of St. Tomas.

Contrary to the Eastern Chinese aggregations and locals as well, the Hongkong eleven retired to the dressing room between halves, during which short period something must have been said that fired the spark necessary to wake them up a bit, for from the very outset of the second half it was merely a question of whether or not U.S.T. could save off the inevitable.

HOME TEAM OUTPLAYED. They were outplayed completely, resorting time and time again to kicking the ball hurriedly in a desperate effort to either get rid of it or kick it outside to stop an offensive of the visitors. (Continued on Page 5.)

BOWLERS REAP RICH HARVEST IN COUNTY CRICKET MATCHES

HOCKEY PROTEST REJECTED

AN APPEAL TO SPORTSMANSHIP

The Rev. J. R. Higgs, Vice-President of the Mamak Hockey Tournament, emphatically stressed the need of a higher standard of sportsmanship at hockey when an extraordinary general committee meeting of the Mamak Hockey Tournament was held at St. Andrew's Church Hall yesterday.

The meeting dealt with a letter from the Secretary of the Central British Association, regarding the ruling given by the Executive Committee to a protest received from the C.B.A. alleging the Radio Sports Club played an ineligible player in the Championship match, on April 22, which Radio won.

Capt. G. W. P. Kimm (Chairman) was assisted by the Rev. J. R. Higgs (Vice-President), Conductor G. E. Clarke (Secretary) and Sub-Inspector L. T. Tyler (Secretary of the Hockey Association).

Representatives of the following teams were present: R.E. R.A.O.C., K.I.T.C., Radio, Nomads, Argonauts, R.U.R., R.C. Signals, R.W.F. and C.B.A.

The Central British Association based their allegation on the rule "A player may not play for more than one club in one season without permission from the Executive Committee and the Clubs concerned."

In the game between the K.I.T.C. and the Argonauts the K.I.T.C. team were short of one man and the captain of the Tennis Club invited C. Singh, who was a spectator, to fill the vacant position. This was done and the game was played.

After the match between the Radio and the C.B.A. the Secretary of the C.B.A. protested that the Radio team played Singh.

Mr. Kimm, who was on the field asked Singh if he had played for any other club before that particular game. He replied in the negative.

A witness then testified that Singh played in hockey last but in long was a member of the Radio Sports Club, and also added that he had played for the Radio Sports Club in hockey games before the match between K.I.T.C. and Argonauts.

"NO CONTRAVENTION". Mr. Higgs remarked that he thought that the rule had not been contravened.

The protest was then put to the vote and was dismissed by eight votes to six. Representatives of the C.B.A. and Radio Sports Club did not vote. Concluding the meeting Mr. Higgs said: "I think we all should aim at hockey of a higher standard of sportsmanship. Let us get down to good clean hockey. After all what I have heard this evening I feel the days of tournament hockey are over."

The Chairman then announced that there was $300 left over at the end of the season and suggested that those present think of a means of disposing of it. The idea of a dinner dance was suggested and as this was unanimously seconded a sub-committee was formed to take charge of this.

BUTLER TAKES 8 FOR 15 FOR NOTTS

YORKSHIRE BEAT LANCASTHIRE

London, May 1.

Yorkshire won the first round in the annual cricket "Battle of the Roses", beating Lancashire at Manchester to-day by ten wickets.

Verity again came into the limelight when in Lancashire's second innings he took 4 for 43. Paynter batted resolutely for the losers and scored a fine 86 out of a total of 197. Yorkshire were on top all the time and won deservedly.

Of the six county matches which ended to-day, five carried decisive results. Scoring generally was very low and bowlers reaped rich harvests. Among the best bowling performances of the day were:

Butler's 8 for 15 for Notts against Surrey.

Boyes' 7 for 55 for Hampshire against Kent.

Hammond's 6 for 23 for Gloucester against Somerset.

Goddard's 6 for 65 for Hampshire against Somerset.

Todd's 6 for 87 for Kent against Hampshire.

Boucher's 5 for 22 and 5 for 23 for the Gentlemen of Ireland against the Minor Counties.

Only four centuries were recorded in the entire first-class programme, these being:

Prentice (Leicester) v Northants 127.

Allen (Gloucester) v Somerset 123.

McCorkell (Hampshire) v Kent 108.

Duckfield (Gloucester) v N.Z. 101.

The detailed results as cabled by Reuter, follow:

WEYMOUTH F.C. IN TROUBLE

CENSURED BY F.A. COMMISSION

A Commission of the Football Association, sitting at Weymouth under the chairmanship of Mr. H. J. Huband, found proved against the Weymouth F.C. allegations that irregular payments had been made to amateur players for loans. The allegations involved 150 players.

The Commission decided:

(1) The club had failed to comply with the rules of the F.A. relating to payment to amateur players and that receipts for expenses paid were not obtained on the prescribed forms.

(2) No evidence was before the Commission that the players in question had forfeited their amateur status.

(3) That for this neglect the club is severely censured, and ordered to pay the costs of the inquiry.

LIKELY TO PROVE THE BIGGEST ATTRACTION

Hongkong v. Siam In Badminton Match FRIDAY & SATURDAY

(By "Veritas")

WHILE the chief object of the visit to Hongkong of a Siamese badminton team is to engage Colony exponents in badminton, the local public will probably derive considerable more thrills and interest from watching the visitors give demonstrations of the famous ball game which is Siam's national pastime.

Not only have the visiting Siamese badmintonites promised to give exhibitions of the game at the close of Friday's and Saturday's badminton matches, but they have brought with them none other than Rangsit Puntumsut, Siam's champion performer, so that Hongkong will be able to gain a very accurate idea of the remarkable skill and ingenuity which the game demands.

The badminton court is used for the game, with two players on either side of the net. The ball, which is kicked from player to player is made of rattan and it requires exceptional ability to control such an object.

Like badminton the method of scoring a point is to get the ball down to the ground on the other side of the net. Points are lost by netting or by kicking outside of the court boundaries.

The rules of the game also bear some relation to that of football. The ball may be headed, breasted or kneeled, but no part of the arms or hands may be used to control it. A player may juggle with the ball on his foot, kicking it three times before sending it over the net, but inter-passing between the partners is not permitted.

VERY SPECTACULAR

The game is extraordinarily spectacular. Players leap high into the air to drive the ball back, and uncanny judgment is shown in lobbing and dropping the ball. Rallies usually are not long, but the play is very fast and certainly most interesting.

Demonstrations of the game will be a feature of the unofficial Interport programme of badminton matches which has been arranged between the Siamese and Hongkong.

The programme will extend over two evenings. There will be one singles and two doubles badminton matches on both Friday and Saturday of this week, the teams having already been nominated.

Here is the proposed schedule and players:

FRIDAY

Chart Shaw (Siam) v. P. H. Wong (Hongkong).

Umporn and Lek (Siam) v. W. C. Choy and S. P. Chan (Hongkong).

Chart Shaw and Choot Shaw (Siam) v. T. C. Lee and P. K. Hul (Hongkong).

SATURDAY

Choot Shaw (Siam) v. P. K. Hul (Hongkong).

Umporn and Lek (Siam) v. M. A. Oliveira and J. J. Remedios (Hongkong).

Chart Shaw and Choot Shaw (Siam) v. P. H. Wong and C. E. Chng (Hongkong).

It will thus be seen that Patrick H. Wong, Colony singles champion, and P. K. Hul, who is recognised as No. 2 singles player, will engage the visitors' nominated players in singles matches.

In the doubles, the Colony's champions, P. H. Wong and C. E. Chng, and the runners-up in the recent championships, M. A. Oliveira and J. J. Remedios, will participate, the third pair being two well-known players in W. C. Choy and S. P. Chan.

Hongkong has thus paid the visitors the compliment of turning out about their strongest team.

FAST AND HARD HITTERS

The Siamese have demonstrated by the two practices they have enjoyed that they will well hold their own against the Colony's leading players. The visitors hit very hard, and make very good use of the court. They prefer the one-up-one-back formation, and play together with good understanding.

The event is somewhat historic as it is the first time a Badminton Interport of this description has been played in the Colony. One again the

M. C. C. CRICKETERS RETURN

Farnes Not Going To Live In Australia

The M.C.C. cricketers arrived at Plymouth last month on their return from Australia, looking fit and well. But none of them would give interviews; they would not even say which train they would catch to London. It is understood that their contracts prohibit them from giving interviews and writing books or articles on the tour within twelve months of its conclusion.

Farnes, however, denied the report that he would retire from English cricket and accept a scholarship appointment in Melbourne. "So far as I know," he said, "I shall be ready to play in England this season."

In addition to Capt. R. Howard, the team-manager, there were fourteen players in the party. All those on the injured list, Duckworth, Wyatt, Fishlock, and Ames, are now fit again.

Captain Howard declined to be drawn into discussion upon controversial points, saying: "I have to make a report to Lord's very shortly of anything of interest." Captain Howard did say, however, that the team played very satisfactorily. "I am sorry," he added, "we disappointed everybody—everybody in England, that is. The spirit of the games was splendid all through. There was some barracking, but none of an intensive kind. It was all good humoured."

Australia, he thought, had some fine young cricketers developing—notably Budecock, Gregory, Robinson, and Hassell. Hassell did not take part in a Test, but he played a splendid innings for Victoria against M.C.C.

The players were welcomed at Paddington by Lord Hawkes, Lord Lucan, Mr. P. F. Warner, and several other prominent members of the M.C.C. Lt.-Col. R. S. Rait-Kerr, Secretary of M.C.C., Mr. R. Aird (assistant secretary), Sir Stanley Jackson, Sir Kynaston Sludd, R. W. V. Robins, and Sir Walter Allen (G. O. Allen's father) were also present.

HOW THE ROYAL ULSTER RIFLES RECOVERED

Royal Ulsters. But a break, followed by a long kick, sent the ball sailing down the field right in front of Martinez. Inside right player, who dribbled a bit and then shot the prettiest goal of the game, a hard straight shot that sailed over goalie Connor's head and into the net, thus making the score 2-0 in favour of the local team.

It might have seemed to most of the spectators that this was the winning margin but it was the last threat made by U.S.T. who from then on were completely on the defensive. The British eleven swarmed all around the goal and controlled the ball during at least three-fourths of the play keeping goalie Black plenty busy. With about ten minutes to play Capt. Moore, star centre forward of the Royal Ulsters, received a ball from the right side of the line and converted on a fine kick from almost directly in front of the goal, about ten yards out.

In just a short time afterwards another kick from the right wing was headed goalward by inside right Doherty, a play that caught Black flatfooted, the ball rolling through without being touched and thus ending the scoring for the night.

PROMINENT PLAYERS

For U.S.T. the most credit goes to the defence players. Black made some very pretty stops and both the halves and the full backs repeatedly broke up British formations. For the Royal Ulsters, offensive honours go chiefly to Moore and the wing players Ferguson and Erwin, with the vaunted defence holding up very well.

The game may well be used for close study by local footballers. A lesson in short passing and playing the ball to the wingmen in order to allow the centre of the line to consolidate its scoring position can be used to good advantage, and decision to relay the ball backwards to someone on your own side, instead of depending on a wild, hurried, and in most cases inaccurate forward kick, is something of the utmost value.

It most certainly looks like a British team, clicking as they were in the second half, will bring out the best football in the local evelens and afford the fans football as they like it.

AN EMPEROR AND HIS TUMOR

Recalling Some Memories Of The Famous Sung Rock By

C. VAN LEO

SIX HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS AGO an Emperor of China, displaced from his Throne by an invading foe, sought safety in headlong flight. Behind him pressed relentlessly, the Tartar Horde, and, although almost an entire continent had been crossed and privations suffered such as the very ploy of it would have turned aside a less inveterate enemy, the pursuit continued to its bitter and tragic end.

Here, at Land's End, where no further flight had seemed possible: on a high promontory at Kowloon Bay which might very well be for him the terrestrial confines of that old world of which he had been accustomed to regard his far-flung Empire as seemingly representing the orbit, the fugitive died by his own hand—a victim to his own despair and wretchedness.

Thus had passed away T'ung Tsung, the last of his clan, and with him also ended a famous story whose glorious deeds had painted the best part of 200 years of Chinese history. Killed in a hundred foot drop, T'ung Tsung's body floated from the foot of the precipice many leagues out to sea. A current miraculously supported and carried it to the sands of Chekwan, and, here, a time-worn tablet venerated by thousands of pilgrims worshipping at a famous Temple, now marks the last resting-place, although the remains, if actually there, had long since disappeared.

That Tumor!

Other dynasties succeeding the Sung had come and gone, before the ushering-in of a latter-day Republic. But Tradition, ever ready to serve a romantic figure, had clothed the last days of the ill-fated Sung monarch with a wealth of picturesque detail that has been handed down by generations of Old Kowloon City residents even unto this day. But the most impressive because of the homely touch it imparts to our understanding of this lonely individual standing out so pathetically from this period of Chinese history, deals with his affliction from a boil which has accompanied him through his wanderings.

At the worst it might have been only a tumor, but the Royal prerogative had magnified it into a malignancy, and his "boil" which had come to crown the sufferings then crowding on him. At any rate, a Minister, companion in his travels, with some pretensions to medical knowledge, had tried to cure the boil for him, and, in dying prematurely, had grieved for leaving the task unfinished.

A Supernatural Cure

But the disorder not long afterwards subsided; the Emperor, we are told, was again able to sit; and a cure that had defied all human efforts, was ascribed to a supernatural agency—the posthumous intervention, nothing less, of the departed Minister.

Well might the Emperor have expressed in the form it took, his gratitude to him who, in death, had remained faithful as in life. Yang, the Faithful, was posthumously created a Duke, and, at the Hui Wong Temple, this mark of Royal favour was afterwards dedicated in an edifice that has ever endured. The Temple still stands on the hill behind Old Kowloon City when I visited it the other day, the Mecca for an annual pilgrimage though successive renovations have transformed its original appearance.

Not long after the incident occurred as recorded, the Emperor was once again being closely harassed by the near approach of the enemy. History or that part of it which may be accepted as nearly representing the truth has invested the great Kublai, Grand Khan of Tartary, with a single-mindedness of purpose that brooked no opposition. A great statesman, too, he must have been if he had believed that no structure of his own could be solidly built unless that which it was designed to supplant was completely destroyed, root and branch. If the new Yuan Dynasty succeeding the Sung was to endure in Cathay, that last remaining link of a now enfeebled race must also be wiped out. We can in the circumstances, appreciate this wholesome dread in a fugitive that at last drove him to suicide when escape no longer had appeared possible.

The Black Rock

The black Rock crowning the precipice from whose high summit he cast himself into the sea, is curiously shaped, its northern face overhanging so as to form an idyllic shelter from sun and rain, as it undoubtedly must have when T'ung Tsung lived under it, ever dreading the hour when from that commanding position, he could see the banners of the approaching Golden Horde streaming in over the passes. If he had written the poem attributed to him on the face of the huge boulder. I fancy it must have sounded the note of a bottomless despair of an insuperable loneliness in a wilderness deserted even by his most trusted retainers, now finding common cause in a mortal fear of, and headlong flight from, a ferocious enemy. Such would have been its message had the poem endured; but like compositions of lesser poets who in after years had insisted on adding their quota to the drama, it had been effaced by the hand of time and weather.

Now only three characters in heroic size subscribed by a later generation stand out chiselled in the Rock, and they no more than serve the purpose of directing attention to it as being the spot from which the fatal leap was taken.

Of course, the Rock is not without a certain allure inherent to all old traditions, and it does continue to inspire an unexplainable veneration one always has for old places and things. The impression is heightened by the care since taken to preserve this visible link remaining to the Colony with its earliest known history. The surrounding area has been closed in, and this with the vegetation, has imparted an atmosphere of quiet seclusion making the short walk up the hill all the more charming for expectation of the old relic the visitor will find at the top.

The area has, by special Government Ordinance, been set apart as a public reservation. I expect the time may not be far distant when with more land being sequestered and added to it, it will be possible to make it one of the Colony's most interesting public parks, and an irresistible show-places for tourists. As it is, the signal post now standing on the boundary with an arm pointing to "The Hill of the King of the Sung" (or was it "The King of the Nieblungs"?), may well for the visitor mark his point of entry into another world—an old world peopled with the shades of despairing Emperors and faithful Ministers whose devotion was carried beyond the grave.

THE HISTORIC SUNG ROCK

GRAVES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

A RECENT article appeared in the Evening Dispatch, dealing with the graves of famous men, set me thinking about the graves of famous women. Not many of them rise to mind. Few graves, if any, of women famous on their own merits will be found in Westminster Abbey. Nevertheless, there are certain graves which should not be overlooked.

In the course of summer holiday wanderings, sometimes as the result of careful planning, at other times quite accidentally, I have come upon the graves of women that are world-famous. The grave of Florence Nightingale was one of those discovered quite by chance.

I had just finished tea in a little timbered cafe with blue tapestry and blue curtains and decorations of summer-green beech leaves at Romney in the New Forest country, and I was casually turning over the pages of a guidebook, when I suddenly realised that her early home and her graves were but a few miles distant. "F. N."

A short car-run took me there. Skirting the environs of Miss Nightingale's early home, Embley Park, where the opening scenes of the famous play, "The Lady with the Lamp," take place, I passed on to the little village of West Wellow. There, in a country churchyard, retired and secluded, I wondered whether any tourists go there?—her body lies in the family burial-place, which is marked by a pinnacled monument "Erected by Florence Nightingale and Henry Verney to the memory of her mother." Her sister Frances's name also appears on the stone. On Florence's side all that is written is "F. N." and the dates of her birth and death—no record of her achievements, no mention of the Crimea or her wonderful work there! All around her are the worn country tombstones which mark the graves of the humble village folk.

After Florence Nightingale, the nurse whose name is best known to fame—is probably Edith Cavell. I found her grave in a green space beside Norwich Cathedral, carefully tended and flower-covered.

The Bronte Sisters

My visit to the Bronte graves was, on the contrary, premeditated, long looked forward to. Beneath the pavement of the old church at Haworth the remains of Charlotte and Emily were laid to rest—Anne rests at Scarborough, whither she had gone in search of the health denied her. The funeral processions of the famous sisters had but a short distance to cross between their home and their graves. They passed through the little patch of garden in front of the parsonage, through the little gate which, it is said, was never opened save for a funeral to pass through, and crossed the dismal churchyard, the constant sight of which, bordering the parsonage on two sides, was well fitted to prey upon the sensitive minds of the sisters. Many were the funerals which followed each other in quick succession through that gate, many the Bronte names recorded on the tablet on the wall of the church.

A few days after Emily Bronte died, Charlotte, writing to a friend, said: "There is no Emily in time or on earth now." Yesterday we put her poor wasted frame quietly under the church pavement. We are very calm at present. Why should we be otherwise? The anguish of seeing her suffer is over; the spectacle of the pail of death is gone by; the funeral day is past. We feel that she is at peace. No need now to tremble for the hand that will, and the keen wind. Emily does not feel them."

When Charlotte followed her sister, not so many years later, there was no sister left to give similar beautiful expression to thoughts of her.

The Jane Austen Tablet

At Winchester—I found—Jane Austen's grave. Like Anne Bronte,

she had left home in search of health, having gone to Winchester, accompanied by her devoted sister Cassandra, to consult a specialist. They lodged in a pleasant-looking house in College Street. A plaque on the wall records the fact that Jane Austen died there. The house overlooks the beautiful garden belonging to the headmaster of the College, and tall hollyhocks peep at it over the railings.

Miss Austen's body was laid to rest in Winchester Cathedral, near the tomb of William of Wykeham. She was remembered only by the usual memorial tablet, for she, being a woman, was at her death apparently considered unworthy of eulogy. A later generation, however, thought differently—her literary contribution had been assessed by that time—and another stone was added, recording her virtues and accomplishments.

Mrs. Carlyle's Epitaph

The grave of Jane Welsh Carlyle is found not at Ecclefechan beside her husband's, but at Haddington. Standing gazing at it through the enclosing railings, I summoned up a picture of Jane, gay and bright and full of life in her girlhood's home nearby. Again I saw her willing on a sofa at Cheyne Row, Chelsea, for what reason speculation has never settled. She could have carved out a life for her own—she had great brilliancy, but she must needs submerge herself in housekeeping, and for her, one feels, that was a mistake. She loved her husband, but he was morose, much occupied with his literary work, protesting ever against interruption, and so, by and by, she slipped into invalidism, and then, all too soon, into her grave beneath the shelter of the "Lamp of Lethargy." The words which Carlyle wrote for her epitaph are, surely, among the most exquisitely tender ever penned. Among other graves to which I still hope to make pilgrimage are those Elizabeth Barrett Browning, George Eliot, Christina Rossetti, and Mary Webb.

Age-old "Secret" of Fire Walking Revealed

ENGLISHMEN DISPROVE FAITH THEORY

By LOUISE MORGAN

Three young Englishmen, pitting themselves against a professional fire-walker and braving a barefoot walk through a 20ft. trench of red-hot embers, solved an age-old mystery one day last month.

Their experience disposed for good of the theory that the immunity of the fire-walker depends on faith.

The experiment, which took place in a private garden at Carshalton, Surrey, was arranged by the University of London Council for Psychological Research.

Fifteen distinguished doctors and scientists were present, including Sir Richard Gregory and Dr. C. E. M. Joad (University of London).

In a trench 20ft. long, 5ft. wide and 15in. deep a huge fire of oak logs had been burning since 5.30 a.m. At 2.30 it was topped with a layer of oak charcoal.

Amid the gasps and primroses it struck an incongruous note. And so did diminutive Ahmed Hussain, the 23-year-old Indian brought especially from Cawnpore.

INDIAN'S SEVEN STEPS
At 3 p.m., with the surface temperature at 1,364 Fahrenheit (740 Centigrade) the Indian walked firmly but rapidly the entire length of the burning trench in seven steps.

He chose the direction most nearly facing Mecca, he told me afterwards, and did not feel the heat at all, because he was "upheld by faith."

Mr. Reginald Adcock, 26-year-old asbestos merchant, sprinted directly down the middle, taking five steps, and scattering rockets of fire.

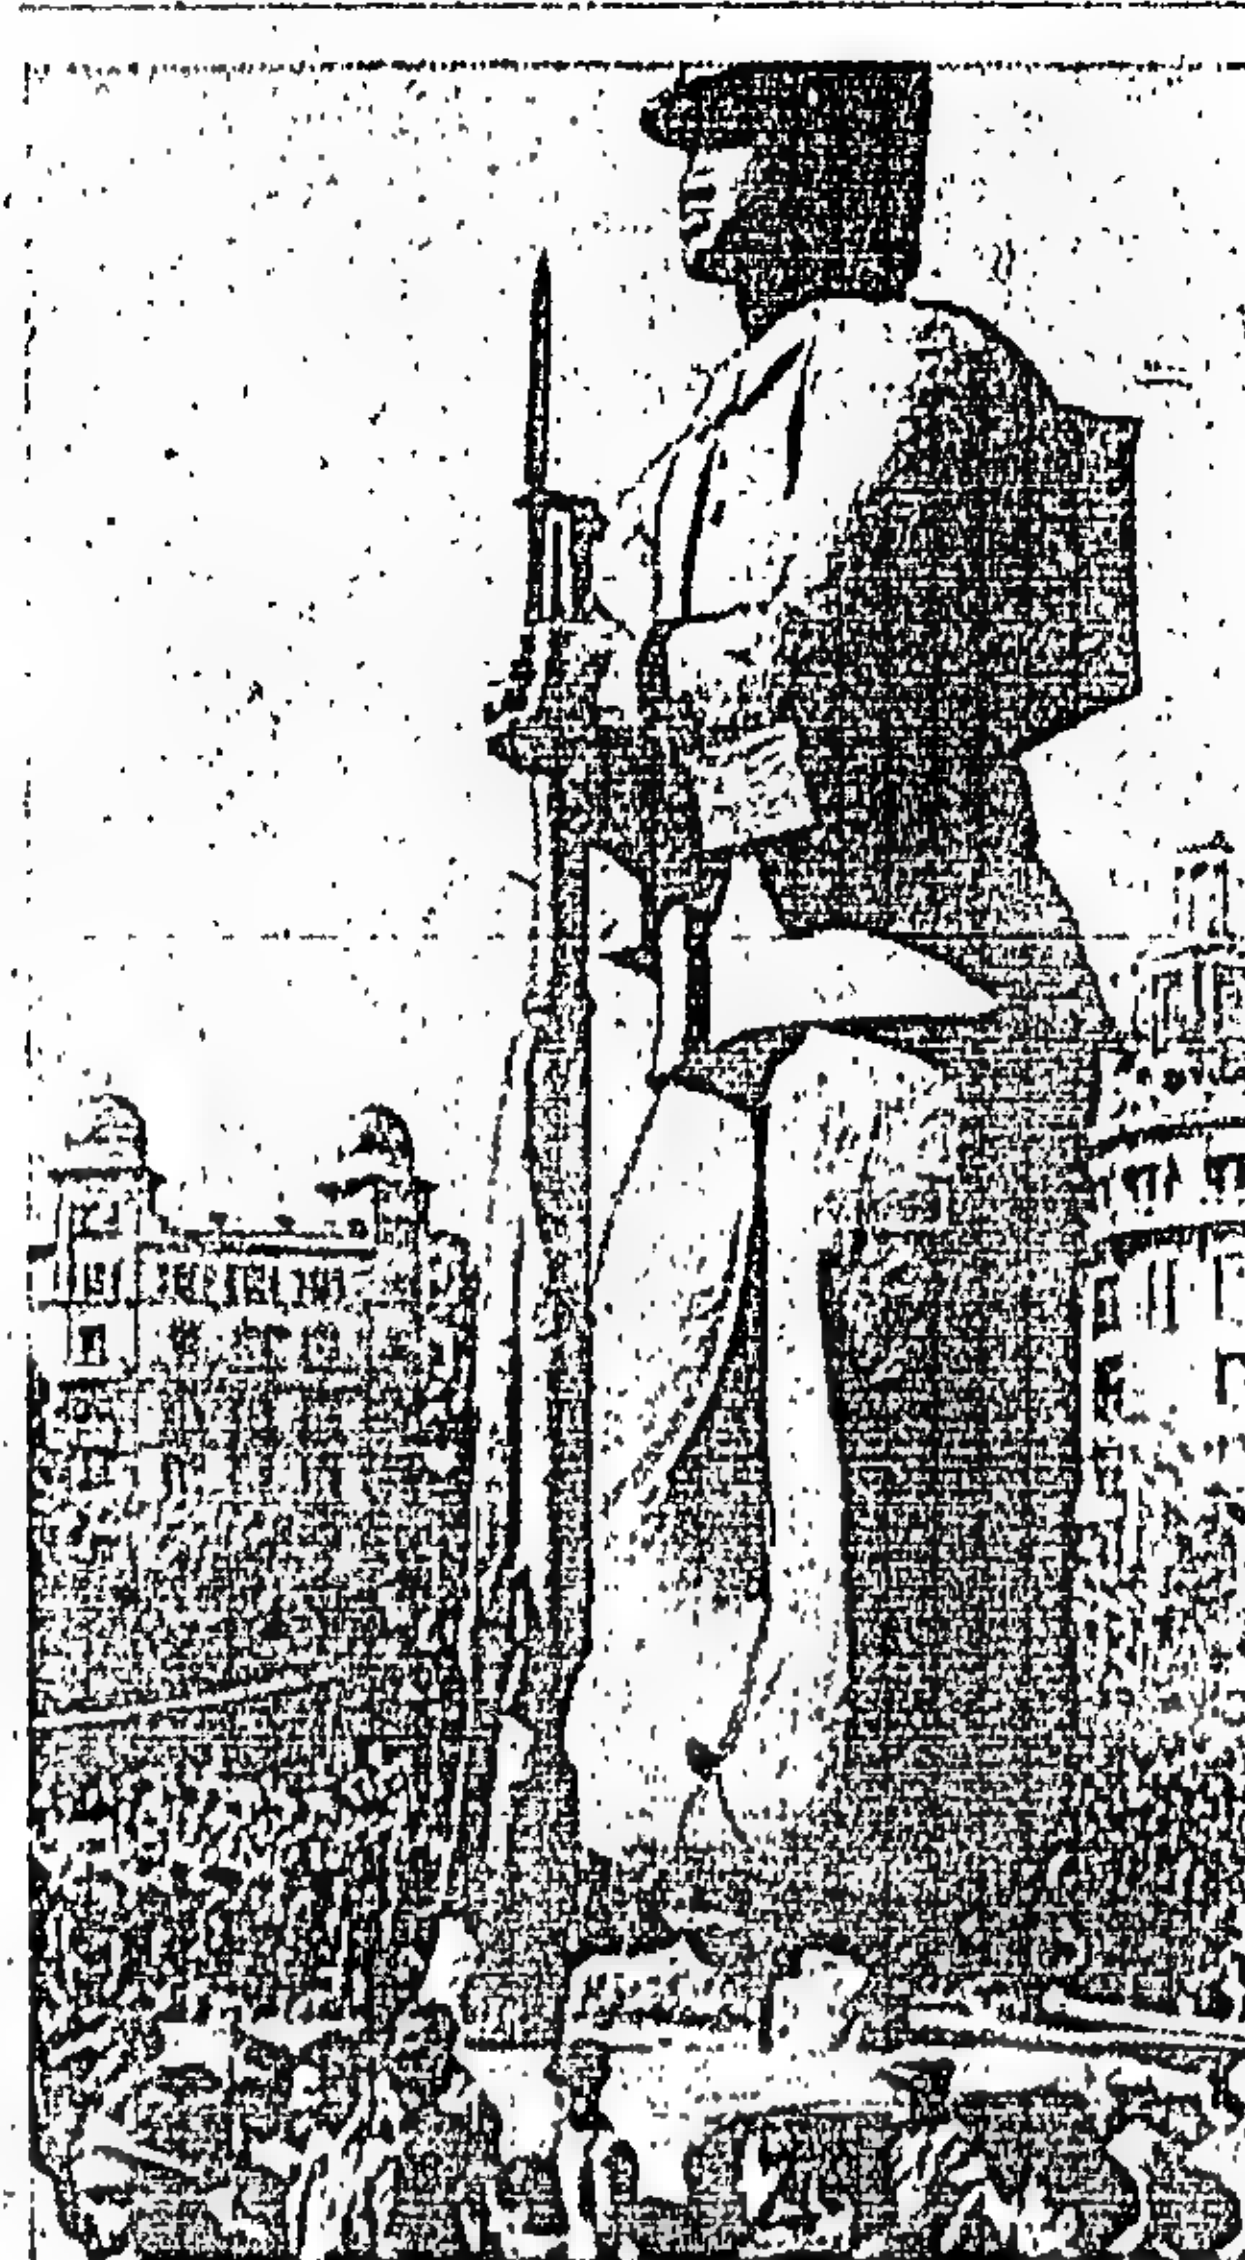

Next John Gould (22), a student took four long, quick paces, sinking up to his ankles.

Then Mr. Adcock strolled slowly through twice in rope-soled shoes. They showed no sign of scorch.

Finally, D. C. Russell (28), examiner, now a student of psychology at London University, ran through.

The feet of the volunteers, except for Mr. Gould, who had already walked the fire at the rehearsal on Wednesday, were only slightly more damaged than those of the Indian.

"This experiment definitely proves that there is nothing supernatural or occult about fire-walking," Dr. Cyril Burt, the psychologist, told me.

Juliana Reproved By The Dutch For Sabbath-breaking

Amsterdam, May 5.

PRINCESS JULIANA of Holland and Prince Bernhard, her husband, back at last from their three-months honeymoon, arrived at their new home in the village of Baarn to-day.

They were surprised to find that Dutch newspapers, including even one of the leading organs, the Rotterdammer, of the Prime Minister's party, had been making severe comments on the fact that they had travelled and visited places of amusement on Sundays.

"Heavily the Dutch people send their prayers to the Lord for the health of the body and soul of the royal couple," wrote the Rotterdammer.

"DESECRATION"
"But we cannot conceal our sadness about their desecration of the Sabbath."

"We have to remind even princes and royalty of the law of the Lord. If the royal couple go on travelling and visiting places of amusement on Sundays they may lose the love of many true Orangists."

"Moreover, they will break down a mighty tradition of the Dutch royal family that has given, in this respect, an example to their subjects."

Disapproval has also been expressed by many earnest religionists, and it is possible the young couple may now have to settle down to a much quieter existence than that which they have recently enjoyed.

OBJECTORS REVIVE SCHOOL- BURNING

Vancouver (B.C.), May 1.

FOUR THOUSAND Doukhobors in eastern British Columbia are reviving their objections to sending the children to Canadian schools by indulging again in the orgy of school-burning, which seven years ago caused the authorities to intern the whole community for three years on Piers Island at immense cost.

Extra police have been rushed to the district after threats to repeat the "blowing up of railway bridges, which, with nude parades, were features of former outbreaks."

The Doukhobors are thrifty and industrious, but refuse to exercise the franchise and become assimilated, while Russia refuses to take them back.

Peter Verigin, their leader, after the last outbreak, negotiated for land in Mexico or South America, but the plan failed.

The Doukhobors were originally Russian peasants, persecuted by the Tsar for their religious beliefs.

SEYCHELLES AS AIR STATION INDIAN OCEAN ISLANDS' NEW IMPORTANCE

The Seychelles—82 islands in the Indian Ocean—which together form one of the Empire's smallest Crown Colonies, and which may become of strategic importance as a stopping place in the proposed Africa-Australia air service, are to ask the Colonial Office for a small subsidy to enable the Colony to produce essential oils other than cinnamon leaf oil, at present one of the island's staple products.

This little-known Colony is becoming a first-class tourist centre.

Mr. W. F. Stephens, a member of the Executive and Legislative Councils of the Colony, who has come to England at the invitation of the Government to attend the Coronation, stated: "Our main produce is copra, of which we produce between 5,000 and 6,000 tons a year."

HARD HIT IN SLUMP
"During this slump this industry was hardly hit, and it became apparent that the Colony had 'all its eggs in one basket.' Although we are now recovering, we are anxious to develop new outlets, and with the help of the Colonial Office may be able to do so."

"In addition to our hope of producing other essential oils our climate is becoming recognised by tourists from Kenya and India as ideal; hotels are being built, and before long there will be accommodation for all."

"Meanwhile we shall form one of the stopping places of an African-Australian air service which, I understand, is being seriously considered. Should this be so, we shall become of great importance to the Empire."

J. H. SQUIRE'S OFFER TO CREDITORS

BANKRUPTCY DISCHARGE

John Henry Squire, of the Celeste Hotel, was granted a discharge from bankruptcy at Hastings County Court last month.

Unsecured liabilities were stated to be £560, and the partly secured £280. The debtor offered £5 a week for ten weeks during the summer and 75 per cent. of the profits of the hotel, and health and a business venture on behalf of his two daughters, were the cause of the failure.

Mr. Squire told Judge Archer, K.C., that once he got down to work and was free of the proceedings his income might easily run into four figures.

The discharge was suspended for seven days on Mr. Squire's offer, the payments not to exceed 10s. in the £.

WELCOME... to the NEW ARRIVAL

By our Nursery Expert

"That's why we don't soo so much of Mother."

MOST mothers, deep within themselves, experience a definite sinking feeling when they find themselves faced with the return to normal conditions after the arrival of a new baby.

Of course, it's marvellous having baby, and what could be more adorable than that bundle of loveliness lying in the cot, but "Will the dainty girl find the work too much with a baby in the house?" and "Does it really take the whole of a mother's time to look after one baby?" and "How am I to be sure that baby is not developing 'something' half the time?"

Please write to me if you have some special problems which confront you when you first return to normal duties with your baby.

Perhaps you feel that the worries are so small that people may laugh at you for entertaining them at all, but I can assure you that I shall not laugh, because I know full well how anxious one can get unless one has a little reassurance.

This week I am dealing with some "New Baby" problems, but let me know if yours does not happen to be among them.

Folding the Squares

I have been told that there is a better way of putting on nursery squares than to fold them in a triangle. How does one go about the other method?—Semley.

FOLD the square in two down the centre; next fold back one-third of this doubled layer, making four thicknesses, on which baby should lie. Bring up the other third between the legs and pin at each side, making a neat little pair of pants and saving a wedge between the legs, which serves no useful purpose. It is a wise plan to reinforce the vest with strips of broad tape at each side on to which the napkin can be pinned.

Chafed Skin

My three-months-old baby is getting very chafed, though I change him frequently and always apply cream and powder. How can I keep his skin in better condition?—Dublin.

THE skin should be thoroughly well washed with warm water and a mild soap when you attend to baby. Lather on the soap, then rub it into the skin thoroughly until it has all been absorbed; do not wash it off.

After that, apply ointment if there is any sign of chafing; otherwise it will be sufficient to dust well with a good nursery powder. Never use both ointment and powder as this merely chokes the pores.

Fears a Squint

I am terribly worried about baby, as I am sure that she has a squint. We don't notice it in the day-time much, but when I go to her at night her eyes look very peculiar. I have had the doctor to her, but he states that he can find nothing wrong. Should I take her to a specialist?—Hester B.

THERE should be no need for this. Probably you switch on the electric light at night, or else take a light to the cot-side.

All babies squint when a bright light falls straight on the pupils of the eyes, but this is only because the muscles of accommodation are not yet strong enough to stand the light. She should outgrow this completely as time goes on.

Avoid strong lights and remember that cot or pram should face away from strong sunlight. Fastid shades are better than white for pram-covers, as white creates a glare; in summer it is a good plan to have the pram-screen lined with green.

Diet for Mother

I had plenty of milk for baby while I was in bed, but since I got up ten days ago it has begun to diminish rapidly. Baby is very fretful in consequence. I am eating all the nourishing food I can and drinking nearly a quart of milk daily, apart from milk-buddings.—Crewe.

I FEEL that, by taking so much food, you are defeating your own ends, for large amounts of food do not increase the milk supply. You should get all the rest you can, stop worrying and drink lots of water between your meals. If you have milk drinks, make them with half milk and half water.

Have three normal meals daily, a cup of thin gruel about mid-morning and an extra drink such as I have described last thing at night. Then I believe that things will go better. Write to me for my Nursing Mother chart if you would care to have it.

Baby Sneezes

My baby often sneezes during the night, but shows no sign of cold in the morning.—Felixstowe.

I SHOULD be inclined to blame the blankets; small particles of wool from blanket or sheet can easily get into the nostrils and set up irritation which causes a sharp fit of sneezing.

I advise a top-sheet for this reason; it should turn down well over the blanket. This plan is also helpful with babies and small children who show a tendency to blanket-sucking.

Belt or Binders?

My four-weeks-old baby is not wearing binders, but my sister-in-law tells me that this is all wrong and that she should at least have a tight body-belt. Is this correct?—Rothsay.

AT four months there is really no need for either belts or binders. Anything tight round baby's tummy is liable to weaken the abdominal muscles and to set up indigestion and constipation.

Your baby should be perfectly right as she is, provided the vest fits down neatly into the nursery square.

Too Much Food

Baby, aged three months, is very fretful. I read recently of a baby of eight weeks who had already cut a tooth and I wonder if mine can be thinking of his teeth yet. He weighed 7½ lb. at birth and now weighs 14½ lb. He is bottle-fed.—Plym.

I FEEL that over-feeding is definitely the cause of your baby's troubles, for he is gaining very rapidly.

When rapid gains are accompanied by restlessness and sickness, you can be fairly certain that baby is taking more than he can digest. Cut down the feeds both in quantity and in strength and give him plenty of cool boiled water in teaspoonfuls between his feed times.

If he gains about 5 ounces every week for the next three or four months you may rest assured that he is making satisfactory progress.

COOKING CABBAGES

VEGETABLE cookery is really worth taking trouble about. Let's start off with cabbage.

We hear a lot nowadays about steaming vegetables: this is an excellent method on occasion, but I cannot recommend it for cabbage because it brings out an unpleasantly strong flavour. The two best methods I know are the German, where the water in which the cabbage is boiled is used to make a sauce; and the French, where the cabbage is blanched and finished off in a casserole.

German Way

THIS is a good way of cooking curly kale, savoy, sprout tops, winter and spring cabbage.

Well wash the kale or cabbage in salted water. Throw it into boiling salted water, barely enough to cover. Use some of the green outside leaves as well as the heart; they contain the most nourishment and give a good colour to the dish. Cook till tender without a lid. If you wish to avoid the strong smell spreading all over the house try the old trick of throwing in a crust of bread with the cabbage.

Meanwhile, three or four minutes before the cooking is completed, start making your sauce in a separate pan. Melt 1 oz. lard (or any pork or bacon fat) over the fire and fry a small chopped onion in it to a light golden colour. Stir in (off the fire) 1 oz. flour and work smooth.

Return to fire and add a little of the water in which the cabbage has cooked, stir well and add more water till you have a sauce of medium consistency, not too thick and not too thin. Add seasoning and a sprinkling of grated nutmeg. While it is cooking, wash the cabbage kale crisp, in which case it will preserve into a colander and put it under the

French Way

YOU'LL find this suitable for any firm, white cabbage. Cut the cabbage into quarters, or eighths if it is a big one. Leave to soak in cold, strongly-salted water for at least ten minutes.

Transfer the cabbage to a saucepan of cold water, bring to the boil and simmer for five minutes (this process is called blanching). Drain off the water well and return cabbage to pan with a lump of butter (½ oz. enough for a small spring cabbage) and half gill stock or milk, a little more or less according to size of cabbage.

Add a generous sprinkling of chopped herbs when available, cover the pan, and leave contents to simmer gently till cooked. Shake from time to time, adding more liquid if necessary. The cooking can be done with equal success in an earthenware casserole in the oven if more convenient.

The cabbage should not be allowed to get too tender and flabby. It should be eaten when still slightly al dente, in which case it will preserve its delicate flavour.

DEVILLED DISHES HOT NEWS

THERE is nothing better than a devil for tempting lost appetite.

Luckily there are scores of them, from breakfast's devilled chicken legs or kidneys to the small devilled tit-bits which are swallowed at cocktail parties.

THE devil in every case is very similar, appearing usually in the form of paste or butter. There is also a dry devil, which is really nothing more than a sprinkling of cayenne or other peppers.

Devil Paste

THE blending of devil paste is a ticklish matter. It should not be made so hot that the eyes are flooded with tears, preparatory to the top of the head being blown off. On the other hand, excessive mildness is a worse fault than that.

You must taste it in the making to try to strike a combination which promises to be hot without being offensive.

TAKING an ounce of butter as the basis, you work into it some dry or made mustard, black pepper, cayenne, curry powder or paste, chutney juice or finely chopped chutney, salt, and a squeeze of lemon juice. The whole should be made into a smooth paste.

Or, if you don't want to use all these ingredients, you can pick and choose among them according to taste, or add a little white pepper and French mustard.

Hot Legs

IN devilling chickens' legs for breakfast, it is best to do it overnight. For one thing, it saves time in the morning, and, for another, it helps the devil to get into the meat.

You should not only spread it over the surface, but make deep scores in the meat and insert some of the paste in these.

THE next morning you merely make the legs thoroughly hot under the grill or in a fireproof dish in the oven.

But they must be thoroughly hot, and this applies to devilled toast, biscuits, sardines, whitebait and all the rest of the tribe.

Devil Fish

WHITEBAIT is the simplest of the lot, and makes a good fish course for lunch or dinner.

Put the fish into a frying-basket and plunge them into boiling fat. When they are crisp, but not brown, take them out, sprinkle them with black pepper or cayenne and return them to the fat until they are nicely coloured. Serve with cut lemon and brown bread and butter.

FOR devilled kidneys you split them open and grill them in the usual way, but just before they have finished grilling you put dabs of devilled butter on them.

You can make this with an ounce of butter, half a teaspoonful of curry powder, the same of finely chopped chutney, cayenne to taste, and a dash of lemon juice.

A pat of this butter goes very well on a grilled steak in place of the more usual maitre d'hotel butter.

Snacks at the Bar

STRIPS of anchovy make neat little snacks for cocktail parties if they are sprinkled with cayenne, wrapped in thin puff paste, and baked in the oven or fried in deep fat.

Sardines, too, can be skinned, spread with a mixture of made mustard and cayenne, egg-and-breadcrumbed, fried and served on narrow fingers of fried bread.

Water biscuits or Bath olivers are ideal for devilling. They are merely spread with a devilled butter and made thoroughly hot in the oven, and a little grated cheese can be sprinkled on as well.

An old and simple method is to soften the biscuits slightly in warm water, sprinkle them with cayenne, and bake them crisp in the oven.

Something Every Mother Should Teach Her Child.

Regularity of the daily habit is of the utmost importance for every child—neglect of this essential health precaution is the cause of much sickness among children and greatly hinders their development. Knowing this, as every mother must, she should not only impress upon her child in its early years the necessity for regularity, but assure herself that nothing is allowed to interfere with the daily function.

Over-eating, too many sweets, and insufficient exercise are the most usual causes of stomach and bowel troubles in little children, for it is these that upset regularity. When a laxative is necessary, and even the healthiest child needs one at times, Baby's Own Tablets are just the medicine needed. Devised specially for the use of children, they are pleasant in taste, mild in action and altogether safe, as they are guaranteed to contain no narcotic or opiate. They quickly correct infantile indigestion, colic, constipation, check diarrhoea, cool feverishness, relieve colds and croup, expel worms, allay teething pains—almost as if by magic! Your chemist can supply Baby's Own Tablets.

There are still some who do not, and you may be amongst them. Try the Odol way—just a few splashes of Odol, the famous liquid antiseptic dentifrice, in a half tumblerful of water will thoroughly cleanse and purify the whole mouth, penetrating all cracks and crevices in and between the teeth, permeating the gums and lining membrane, and exerting its antiseptic and refreshing powers, not only during the few moments while being used, but for hours after. It is this lasting effect that gives to "Odolisers" the absolute assurance that their mouths are permanently protected from the bacteria and processes of fermentation.

GRACE WILSON'S NEWS

FOR WOMEN

New Hat Grip: Cook
Tells Secrets:
Device for Knitters

EARLY summer hats tend to show changes, but they still call attention to the coiffure to an extent that on neat hair-dressing depends success in wearing them.

More scraps of straw, ribbon, or lace, top-heavy with flowers and trimmings, are not only smart but entirely becoming.

In place of crowns on some of the widebrimmed hats you find posies of flowers held by folds of velvet ribbon so that the hair is partially revealed. The brims themselves sweep up on either side in a new line as though a puff of wind were blowing them upwards.

But they are held fast by a new-type hat grip invented by Madame Arnes, of Paris.

It lies from back to front of a hat inside, with a short extra point to grip the back of the head, and replaces bandeaux and elastics which are inclined to ruffle the set of the curls.

The grips are flexible and cling most naturally to the head.

In this collection of hats rich colour combinations are used.

A maize-coloured boku straw was trimmed with green ribbon and multi-coloured field flowers.

Violets and fuchsia-coloured velvet ribbon trimmed another cyclamen straw.

The back view of a white, gros-grain beret, trimmed with blue, showed that the crown was heart-shaped. And the cleverest little toque made of a twist of stiff blue moire ribbon had a tuft of lilacs of the valley posed right in front.

HERE is a practical little device for the knitting bag. It is an ordinary clip such as one would use for clipping letters together, to which is attached a narrow rule or blade six inches long, made in white composition.

The inches are clearly marked in black on one edge, and on the other the equivalent in the metric system.

The little knit-clip is fixed on the edge of a pattern book or leaflet so that the blade will rest directly underneath the line of the pattern one is following.

Using this device there is no danger of losing the place, no need to mark the book with pins or pencil, and a 6-inch measure is always at hand. Altogether a useful sixpennyworth.

HOLY "RELIC" NEARLY CAUSES DEATH

Paris, Apr. 25. A pious woman of Montpellier, Mlle. Theron, has nearly lost her life owing to the possession of an object which she and her neighbours believed to be a religious relic of great power.

A neighbour, Mlle. Ferron, attributed her persistent ill luck to spells cast upon her with the help of this "relic." She, therefore, attacked Mlle. Theron with a hatchet, demanding that the relic should be surrendered to her so that she could burn it.

Mlle. Theron succeeded in snatching the hatchet from Mlle. Ferron, but was knocked down by her. Mlle. Ferron, trampled on Mlle. Theron and struck her over the head with a kettle.

Mlle. Ferron then went away, washed the blood off her hands and clothes, and made her way to the police station. There she gave herself up.

Mlle. Theron is still in a critical condition.

Man-Eating Wolves Kill 13 Children

Lucknow, Apr. 21. A pack of man-eating wolves which terrorised villages near here, killing 13 children in a fortnight, has been dispersed.

The hungry pack, forced from the jungle by storms, met with hardly any resistance as the villagers have no arms except bamboo spears. The wolves became very daring and carried off children from the fields in the presence of their parents. Villagers became afraid to stir from their huts.

The Zemindar, moved by their sufferings, organized a posse of 200, including armed constables. After an exciting chase the leader of the wolf pack was killed and the pack dispersed.

"You have every right to be, Mrs. Evans. I can see a wonderful improvement since you took my advice about 'California Syrup of Figs'."

"I could tell from what you said that there must be toxins in their systems. When children are cross and peevish and lose interest in their food and games, you can be practically sure it's an accumulation of poisonous matter upsetting their insides. I've seen it so often! Just cleanse the system in a safe, natural way, children go ahead like wildfire."

"But do be sure always to give them 'California Syrup of Figs.' It's a natural fruit laxative which safely cleanses and purifies the bloodstream and creates a fine healthy appetite."

"Keep on with the weekly dose of 'California Syrup of Figs,' Mrs. Evans. It's a fine laxative for young and old. As a matter of fact I use it myself and advise you to adopt it for the whole family."

Be sure to get the genuine "California Syrup of Figs."

Academy Of 1,150 Students

May 18.

HIGHER education in the tactics and principles of the Chinese Soviet Party and the Red Army is provided in one of the largest and most unique institutions of the Chinese Soviet Government, the "Chinese Peoples' Anti-Japanese Military and Political Academy" in Yennanfu.

This school, usually called by its abbreviated name, "Hung Ta," or "Red Academy," has an enrolment of 1,150 students from inside and outside the Soviet areas, while another 1,000 students are enrolled in the branch institution, the Red Army Infantry School.

Girl and boy students from every province in China and from Malaya, Korea, Manchuria, French Indo-China and elsewhere come to the Red Academy seeking further political education in preparation for the mass movement of resistance to "further Japanese aggression." From Szechwan, Hunan, Kiangsi, Kiangsu and Shensi provinces have appeared the largest number of students, from other parts of China. Most of those enrolled are Red Army commanders but there are also 350 students from universities and middle schools elsewhere, including between 50 and 60 patriotic girl students who expect to become leaders in the national salvation movement, according to Lin Piao, Chancellor of the Academy.

A few enroll in the school because it is the fashion to do so, but they are soon disillusioned or weeded out. The majority are sincere and earnest students who gladly accept the hard work, the simple millet diet, the long hours of study and lecture, and the strict discipline.

The curriculum varies according to previous education and cultural standard of the students, but always centres on preparations for war against Japan. All classes study political science, fundamental problems of the Chinese revolution, mass organization, party tactics. Special attention is devoted to the lower grades to partisan organization and guerrilla warfare. The higher grades specialize in philosophy, political science, economics and battle strategy. Special study and discussion groups are organized to train leaders in the Infantry School, mountain climbing, war tactics and engineering are emphasized, in addition to the subjects given all students.

Prerequisites for enrolment in the academy, for outside students, are a minimum age of 18, middle school education or better, good health and sincere intentions. School hours are from 9 a.m. to noon daily, two-hour classes every alternate afternoon and night time also is required for the discussion and study groups conducted in various sections of the city. These groups study such problems as the trade union movement, recreational organization, dramatics, fund-raising, public speaking, peasant problems, factory worker problems, military drill, horsemanship, care of the rifle and first aid.

The faculty comprises 17 full-time instructors and a large corps of part-time instructors drawn from the ranks of the Red Army, including Mao Tse-tung, Chu Teh, their wives, Kai Feng, Commissar of Food Supplies, Po Ku, former President of the Soviet Government, Northwest Bureau, Wu Liang-ping, former Chinese minister to Great Britain, T'ai Shu-fan, Commissar of the Interior, Chen Kang, a former Kuomintang general, and others equally experienced in fighting, agitation and other communist work. The present class began in January, 1937, and will graduate in August of this year, completing five months of intensive training. Fifty per cent of the students are between 23 and 30 years of age, 25 per cent are over 30 and 25 per cent are between 18 and 23. When graduated, they will work in the Red Army, in the Soviet districts, with the Manchurian Volunteers and in all other parts of China.

In the Chinese areas occupied already by the Japanese Army, they will organize secret societies among the peasants in readiness to spring into action on the signal, and also organize strikes and other troubles. In the Kuomintang areas they will no longer press the class struggle but will devote their efforts towards awakening the masses to the need of preparing a defensive war against Japan.

The director of the school is Commander Lin Piao, a graduate of the Whampoa Military Academy, participant in the Northern Expedition under General Chiang Kai-shek. In the Red Army, which he joined after the Nanchang Uprising, he rose through the ranks from fighter to squad company, platoon, regiment, column and army front commander, and is a Member of the Soviet Military Council. His revolutionary career commenced in middle school.

RECONSTRUCTS MURDER PLOT FOR CROWN

Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, with the following jury: Messrs. J. A. de V. Soares (Foreman), So Piu-chen, Lau Heung to Shopan, Wong Cheung-sing, Sung Kit-man, W. E. Denison and L.A.L. da Silva. Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General, is conducting the case for the Crown. First accused is defended by Mr. Lo Tung-fan, instructed by Mr. G. S. Ford; the second is represented by Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. W. C. Hung; and Mr. H. Somerset Fitzroy is appearing for the third prisoner on the instructions of Mr. W. Keith Robinson.

The murdered woman, said Mr. Williams, was a widow of about 70 and lived alone in Shun Wan Village, which could be reached in the ordinary way from Tai Po Market by walking along the path which skirted the sea past Tai Po Hu. She was childless and first accused was a nephew, being the adopted son of her sister-in-law, Pang Kung. He was adopted when about two years of age and deceased had been responsible for bringing him up. Six years ago, he left the village to find work in Yau-mat, but continued to visit his relatives about three or four times a year. Of late years, he brought along with him second accused as his wife, although his family knew nothing of his marriage.

WAS POOR WOMAN

Deceased was a poor woman, continued Counsel, and earned her living by cutting grass, carrying earth and breeding one or two pigs. Her sister-in-law, although not living with her, had meals in her house.

At the time of the murder, first and second prisoners lived at 41 Po Kong Road, second floor. They went to the address about three months before the murder, and rented from the principal tenants, one of whom was third accused, the middle cubicle at $2.40 a month. The other principal tenant was third prisoner's daughter, Man Seung. At that time, first accused had employment as a seaman and second accused had a little money. Soon afterwards, however, he lost his employment and as a result he and his wife became very hard up. They were unable to pay the rent, and on several occasions had to borrow valuables from Man Seung to pawn in order to raise money for food. Subsequently, third prisoner from request was made for money, and it was this desire to raise money for payment on the part of first and second accused that led to the murder of deceased.

They appeared to have endeavoured to borrow money, without success, from deceased on or about February 3. Their request was overheard by one Cheng Wah-hing, to whom first prisoner subsequently sold a pair of shoes for $3.

THREE WENT TO BORROW

On February 22, they were again pressed for money, and finally first prisoner said he would go to deceased again in order to borrow money. On this occasion he was also accompanied by his wife. Third prisoner also went, at the request of second accused, who told her that if she would not come alone she would not get the money. The three left Po Kong Road about 6 p.m. on February 23, and the next time anything was known of them was about 10 p.m. when they went to a boarding house at Tai Po Old Market and stayed there for the night.

They left the place at daybreak and returned to Tai Po New Market, where they were seen by a Chinese detective. Shortly after that, first accused returned alone to Po Kong Road, and told Man Seung that deceased had given $40 to the mother of one Cheng Sek-hon to bring back. He also mentioned that his wife and third prisoner were waiting for him at the petrol station, whereas in fact they were seen at Tai Po at that time.

CARRIED SOMETHING

First accused left the house about 7.30 p.m. and at mid-night he was seen in the company of the other two on their way to Chun Wan Village. That night was a very bright moonlight night. At that hour four women from Chun Wan left the village to gather shell-fish and while about 150 yards from the place, they met the three prisoners. First accused told them not to speak as they were carrying something, which the women believed was smuggled goods, and therefore did not say anything.

Accused returned to the boarding house where they stayed the previous night about 2 a.m. The Crown case was that in the interval between mid-night and 2 a.m. deceased must have been murdered by them.

Referring to deceased, Counsel said that although she was an old woman she enjoyed reasonably good health. On the day of the murder she had been out in the fields, and after she had returned to the village she paid a visit to her relatives. She then likely but it is not to be ruled out as a permanent impossibility. "Yet, given all the goodwill possible, the determining factor in a Far Eastern settlement, as Japanese statesmen have been more and more ready to acknowledge of late, is the nature of the relations between the two great Oriental neighbours—in short, the object of the Japanese policy in and towards China. For British and American opinion alike this is the acid test, not merely as a matter of sentiment, powerful as that is, but because it would, in practice, be impossible to devise such a system as Mr. Lyons, the Australian Prime Minister has propounded, unless it were such as to re-establish mutual confidence between China and Japan," the Times concludes.—Reuter.

turned to her house, and that was the last time she was seen alive.

DISCOVERS BODY

About 5 a.m. on April 23, Pang Kung, her sister-in-law, went to her house to prepare the morning meal. She found the door wide open, which was unusual, and on entering the house she discovered deceased lying on the floor. Deceased was half naked, and the trousers were used to tie round her ankles. Two aprons covered her face, her hands were tied together across the chest, and ropes were round her legs, just above the knees. The Police were immediately informed and Detective Goodwin took charge of the investigation. The sleeping room appeared to have been carefully searched by the intruders but not ransacked.

Third prisoner was the first to return to Po Kong Road on the morning after the murder. She was followed shortly afterwards by second accused. Preparations were made for the morning meal, and during this a conversation took place, which threw considerable light on what happened to deceased. Second accused was alleged to have told Man Seung that her husband entered the house by climbing to the roof, while she and third prisoner assisted in tying up deceased.

NEW GOLD RING

The man returned about noon and joined in the conversation. He was wearing a new gold finger ring, which he bought at a goldsmith shop in Kowloon City for $14.50. Later, he redeemed some of the articles lent to him and his wife by Man Seung.

A few hours later, continued Counsel, the man's conscience appeared to be troubling him for he remarked to Man Seung that his aunt (deceased) could not be dead otherwise he would be informed and asked to attend the funeral. He told her that if anyone came and asked for him she was to say that he had been sick for several days and had never left the house.

In the meantime, the Police were searching for him, as it was learned that he had been seen near the village. Later in the day, first accused was met in Po Kong Road by one Cheng Ki-mui, who told him that his aunt was dead. Cheng asked him to go to the village and he went. He went back to his house and brought his wife along, but as they reached the street, a Chinese detective approached and took them to the Police Station on suspicion.

IMPLICATED THIRD PARTY

At the station, first prisoner told Sergeant Goodwin that third accused, saying she was also involved in the murder.

Subsequently, all accused were charged with murder. First prisoner made a lengthy statement in the course of which he alleged he had been threatened by third accused with death if he failed to pay what he owed her and her daughter. He also alleged that Man Seung asked him to go with his wife and her mother and rob his aunt, saying that it was a trifling matter for an old woman to die. Though reluctant at first, he was forced to do so. Accused then went on to relate how he entered the house, tied up deceased, with the assistance of the two others, and took away several tens of dollars.

Second prisoner made a similar statement, and added that her husband was forced to commit the crime by third prisoner.

Third accused denied having taken part in the crime, although she admitted having walked outside the house.

A post-mortem on the body was performed by Dr. G. H. Henry who found that death was due to fracture of the ribs, shock and exposure.

The Crown case, concluded Counsel, was that accused went to the house to obtain money from deceased, and prepared to use whatever force was necessary to achieve their object. In carrying out their purpose, deceased met her death, it is claimed.

SMUGGLING INJURES SEA TRADE

In your hands for the prescribed period and with your permission I will take them as read," Mr. Williamson said.

"After paying all running expenses, docking charges, insurance premium and all allowances, the loss on the year's working is $121,479.22, to which must be added the balance brought forward from last year $13,523.52 making a total debit in the profit and loss account of $135,002.74.

Your consulting committee and general managers regret this position which is entirely attributable to the very poor trading conditions which have existed between South China coast ports for the major part of the year under review, there being very keen competition for the small amount of business offering between these ports. Shanghai is now doing more business in the way of transshipment cargo and also in Chinese manufactured goods to these ports which in the meantime tends to lessen the demands from Hongkong. The exchange position at Amoy and Foshow has improved considerably, but Swatow has not yet come into line in this respect. Smuggling on the coast is still quite a serious evil and a great deal of legitimate business is lost through this illicit trading. We still maintain strict searches prior to vessels' departures from Hongkong, which are carried out in conjunction with the Police, and we appreciate the assistance they render in this direction. "Our investments have fluctuated considerably during the year but they now stand at date at a slightly higher value than the book value shown in these accounts."

SALE OF HAINING

"We have since the closing of these Accounts sold the Haining and I am glad to say that our overdraft position is now eliminated. The Haining was a popular vessel on our trades, but owing to the requirements of the Sinitic Convention rules which would have entailed extensive and costly alterations, your consulting committee and general managers decided to take advantage of an attractive offer which was made for this vessel.

It is possible to maintain our trades for the time being with the Hainan, Haiyang, Heiching, and the chartered Seistan, but should there be a substantial increase on the cargo side of our business, serious consideration will have to be given in the way of replacing the Haining.

With the prevailing shortage of tonnage for outside trading there are indications that we can reasonably expect more remunerative trading in the future. Every possible economy is being effected, and your vessels are held on very conservative values when compared with present day market prices. It is therefore not necessary to allow further depreciation in these Accounts.

"In conclusion I desire to place on record our appreciation of loyal and efficient co-operation of our floating and shore staffs."

"I do not think there is any more in the accounts that I can comment upon, so now beg to propose that the report and accounts as submitted be adopted and passed. As soon as this resolution has been seconded I will be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions shareholders may desire to ask."

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

Seconding the motion, Mr. Croucher said: "The loss shown on the year's working is regrettable; the position has now been explained by the Chairman. Business in Hongkong generally was very depressed in 1936 and no doubt shipping with all its attendant charges was very seriously handicapped."

"It is fortunate that our consulting committee and general managers made provision in the past which has enabled them to meet these abnormal conditions. "I am glad to hear from the Chair that there are definite signs of improved trading conditions owing to there being a general shortage of tonnage and I trust this will be reflected in our next account."

"I have pleasure in associating myself with the Chairman's remarks regarding the loyal co-operation of the floating and shore staffs. "I beg to second the motion for the adoption of the report and accounts as presented."

OTHER BUSINESS

On the motion of Mr. T. Ramsey, seconded by Mr. J. F. Wright, Sir Robert Ho Tung, Hon. Mr. M. T. Johnson and Mr. M. H. Turner were re-elected as Members of the consulting committee.

On the motion of Mr. Wong Ping-sun and seconded by Mr. Chun Wing-kei, Messrs. Lowe, Bingham, and Matthews, and Messrs. Linstead and Davis were elected as auditors of the Company for the year 1937.

Policemen See Crime Film Here

Get Hints From Thugs
And G-Men

If anybody with a leaning towards crime had tried to give expression to it in the Queen's Theatre at 11 a.m. to-day it would have been just too bad for him!

Some scores of police panting with a desire to use a newly acquired knowledge, formed the sole audience at the Theatre which was showing a detective-training film entitled "You Can't Get Away With It!"

This picture has criminals for its stars and crime prevention for its moral. It shows the system used by the famous G-Men of the U.S. federal force and is being shown generally for the edification of brother "cops" throughout the world and law-breakers who care to pay at the Alhambra Theatre on May 20.

The International Police of Shanghai have seen the film and the Hon. Mr. T. H. King, I.C.P., sent the local force to view it this morning.

ARE YOU A BORE?

them to take his candidate first. They agreed, and "Druciolanus" left as soon as he had put his ball in the box.

The other members voted for his candidate, but when the box was opened they were astonished to find one black ball among the white ones. Sir Augustus had blackballed his own candidate!

It is our duty to suffer fools gladly, but to suffer bores gladly is too much to demand of human fortitude.

Take, for example, the pessimistic bore who is always a prophet of evil and ruin and catastrophe. He never sees the silver lining of any cloud. He lowers the spirits of everybody he meets.

The hearty, high-spirited optimist is also a bore. He goes about pang-losing every ill that flesh is heir to. His noisy cheerfulness gets on your nerves.

The only thing to do when the jolly dog tries to console you by his artificial grin and his hollow laughter is to fly from his unreal presence. Jolly-dogery is one of the deadliest forms of boredom.

TWO rules I will lay down for those who are afraid of becoming bores.

One is to avoid grumbling about the weather.

The other is to take a vow never to talk about your ailments. I knew a man who carried in his pocket a diagram illustrating his terrible operation.

If you wish to keep your friends, resolve never to mention your terrible operation, no matter how terrible it was; for nobody is really interested in the maladies of other people. The morbid hypochondriac is a public enemy.

If you are one of the few bores who know when they are boring their fellow creatures, I can offer you one crumb of comfort. Everybody is a bore to somebody, but nobody is a bore to everybody.

There are wives who bore everybody but their husbands, and husbands who bore everybody but their wives.

WEATHER MAY KEEP AVIATORS FROM H.K.

Divine Wind Heads
For Hanoi

May Hop Direct
To Formosa

Weather conditions along the coast of China may deprive Hongkong of the opportunity of welcoming Masaki Inuma and Kenji Tsukagoshi, the Japanese fliers who, in their monoplane Divine Wind, created the record of 90 hours from Tokyo to London.

They arrived at Rangoon at 11.40 a.m. yesterday on the return flight to Japan, and took off for Hanoi at 7 o'clock this morning. They are expected at the French airport late this afternoon, and will not leave until tomorrow morning.

A cablegram from Tokyo this morning stated that the airmen had been instructed not to land at Hongkong unless weather conditions are unfavourable for flying direct from Hanoi to Taihoku (Formosa). It is possible, therefore, that the two airmen will pass in the vicinity of Hongkong at 11 a.m. to-morrow without landing.

Their present flight from Croydon to Tokyo is a leisurely one and no attempt is being made to create an outward record. The airmen left Croydon on Friday morning, and have travelled to the Far East by easy stages.

Their flight from Tokyo to London, however, has only one counterpart, that being the Maidenhead-Melbourne record created by C. W. A. Scott and the late Captain T. Campbell Black who, in October, 1934, flew 11,300 miles in a fraction over 71 hours. Scott and Black did the 8,124 miles from Maidenhead to Port Darwin in 52½ hours. The Japanese airmen flew the 9,000 miles from Tokyo to London in 94 hours 18 minutes, total elapsed time.

An uproarious welcome is being prepared for the airmen in Japan, and it is possible that the date of their arrival in Tokyo will be declared a holiday. A quarter of a million people are expected to witness their landing at the Japanese capital, where they are expected on Friday afternoon.

Masaki Inuma, the pilot of the Divine Wind, is only 26 years of age, and has never undertaken a world flight before. With him is Kenji Tsukagoshi, aged 38, a radio operator. Neither can speak English.

A radio message received from the airmen at noon stated that they were making good progress en route to Hanoi, where they expected to land at 4.40 p.m. They will resume their flight to-morrow morning.

ZBW'S PROBLEMS
By FIRST NIGHT

A complete itinerary has now been arranged by the B.B.C. for the Empire tour of Mr. J. B. Clark, Director of the B.B.C. Empire Service.

According to this itinerary, Mr. Clark will arrive in Hongkong on September 16 by the N.Y.K. liner Kitano Maru, and will depart for Singapore by the P. & O. liner Rawalpindi two days later.

Mr. Clark left London on the commencement of his long tour on May 7 and arrived at Port Said in the P. & O. liner Carthage this morning.

He expects to arrive in Colombo, where he will spend seven days, on May 30. From Colombo he will travel to Australia, where he will spend approximately a month before visiting New Zealand.

Mr. Clark is making the tour, which will last until December 5, in order to study the reaction of overseas listeners to the B.B.C. Empire programme, to investigate problems that mutually affect the B.B.C. and other broadcasting services in the Empire, including ZBW, and to repay some of the many visits that have been paid to the B.B.C. by Empire listeners.

SUPREME COURT JUDGE QUITS

ACTION INJURIOUS TO ROOSEVELT'S CASE

Washington, May 18. Mr. Justice Willis van Devanter, 78-year-old judge of the United States Supreme Court, informed President F. D. Roosevelt to-day that he was retiring from active service.

Mr. Justice van Devanter is one of the staunchest conservatives of the Supreme Court and his retirement gives President Roosevelt his first opportunity to appoint a judge of his own choosing.

High officials do not expect further retirements at present, but Mr. Justice Sutherland, who is also strongly conservative, may take advantage of the Retirement Act in a few months.

Mr. Justice van Devanter's action has weakened the President's case for the reform of the Supreme Court, where the Chief Executive has said, men over 70 are not desirable.

SENATE APOSES
Washington, May 18. The Senate Judiciary Committee to-night voted unfavourably on President Roosevelt's judiciary re-organisation measures, and opposed any extensive compromise. The vote was ten to eight.—United Press.

It is true the Constitution says that priests can vote and can stand as candidates, but scrutiny of the Constitution shows that it will be difficult for their names to appear on the election ballot papers. Whatever opposition or disputes arise—say, for instance, in respect of what names shall appear on the ballot papers—this will naturally occur before the elections themselves. Probably in many cases electors will be offered a list of three or four candidates to select from at the polls, but these candidates will be “as like as peas in a pod,” because they will all be sponsored by the same groups, and represent the same political views and tendencies.

Gang Preys On Lovers

One Caught And Fined

Stated by the police to be one of a bunch of scallywags who terrorized love-making couples and extorted money from them, Sin Yeung, 23, blacksmith, was fined $20, with option of a month's hard labour, by Mr. E. Himsworth at the Kowloon Magistrate's this morning. He was charged with stealing clothing. In a previous hearing it had been alleged that Sin had come upon a man and woman in a state of undress on the roof of a house in Portland Street, and had snatched up their clothing, refusing to return them until he was paid. The woman had run away, but the man was forced to give up all the money he had on him, together with a ring. When Sin asked for more, the man rebelled and called a policeman.

After evidence which resulted in Sin's conviction, Detective Sub-Inspector R. Cunningham said there was a lot of this sort of thing going on. A crowd of scallywags would go around King's Park and such places, looking for love-making couples, and would demand and receive all their valuables, believing their victims would not care to make a report.

EMPIRE SHIPS LOSING TRADE IN FAR EAST

Question of Subsidies Before Imperial Committee Now

Foreign competition and discrimination against British shipping in Hongkong and other parts of the Pacific are being discussed this week by the Shipping sub-Committee of the Imperial Committee, which met in London all day yesterday.

Statistics have been placed before the sub-Committee, showing the effect of foreign subsidies on British shipping to Hongkong, New Zealand and Australia.

Lord Rothermere's suggestion that British cargo steamers of certain speeds should enjoy a rebate of Suez Canal dues will probably be discussed by the sub-Committee this week.

London, May 18.

The Imperial Conference got well under way this morning with meetings of the Shipping and Economic sub-Committee.

The Shipping sub-Committee subsequently issued a communique, stating that its discussion had centred on shipping and its vital importance to the British Commonwealth. Reuter understands that the meeting mainly dealt with methods of procedure. Before the next meeting is held, statistics and documents, including the Report of the Imperial Shipping Committee on Foreign Competition in the Far East will be circulated to members.

The main aspects of the question are understood to be flag discrimination and subsidised competition in the Pacific, particularly between the United States and Europe and the Far East and between the United States and New Zealand and Australia.

Japanese, American and Italian ships competing with British ships on the Far Eastern services are heavily subsidised. American ships competing with British ships on the southern Pacific services to New Zealand and Australia are indirectly subsidised to a heavy degree by the U.S. Post Office.

The meeting of the Economics Committee was also of an exploratory nature. When the heads of the Empire delegations meet to-morrow afternoon it is understood that foreign affairs will be the chief topic.—Reuter.

DOWN TO BUSINESS

London, May 18. As a result of an informal meeting of representatives of delegations to the Imperial Conference to-day it was decided to set up a committee to deal with constitutional questions, particularly in regard to nationality legislation. The Governments of Canada, South Africa and the Irish Free State have already passed legislation on this subject. The personnel of committee will be agreed upon at a meeting of heads of delegations to be held at No. 10 Downing Street to-morrow afternoon.

The committee dealing with shipping questions held its first meeting later. The committee will, in the course of its deliberations, consider all aspects of the Imperial shipping problem, including such questions as flag discrimination and subsidised competition.

"The principle underlying our policy," Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, said, "is that transmission by air should be regarded not as something exceptional but just as an ordinary form of transport. We contemplate what we call an all-up service. Postage on first class mail sent from the United Kingdom will be 3d. per half ounce for letters and 1d. for postcards. Services will be even more speedy than those provided by air at present and they will become faster as time goes on. A start is to be made in about a month with a service to South and East Africa. Similar services to India and Malaya will, I hope, begin at the end of this year, and a service to Australia early in 1938."

In reference to television, the Postmaster General said the range at present was usually about 25 miles, but they hoped that some day television would reach other parts of the Empire.—British Wireless.

SUBSIDIES EXPECTED

London, May 18. The Imperial Conference shipping committee to-day opened discussions relative to shipping subsidies and it is expected these will result in an Empire campaign to place British shipping on an equal footing with subsidised United States and Japanese lines in the Pacific area, in which Britain is expected to "go the limit," even if the result is a rate war.—United Press.

Engineers Expected To Resume

London, May 18. The resumption of work by 1,500 of Beattie's engineers who have been on strike in Glasgow during the last seven weeks is expected by the week-end.

At a mass meeting in Glasgow it was resolved that the acceptance of the terms suggested by the firm as a basis for reopening of negotiations should be conditional upon 100 per cent. of the strikers returning to work.

This strike has caused important Admiralty contracts to be delayed, which, it is estimated, has cost the engineers £40,000 in wages.—Reuter.

AMBASSADORS RECEIVED

GERMAN AND CHINESE SEE ROOSEVELT

Washington, May 18. President Roosevelt to-day received the retiring Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Sze, and the new German Ambassador, Dr. Dieckhoff, who presented his letters of credence and personal wishes for the President's well-being from Herr Adolf Hitler. President Roosevelt, replying, asked the Ambassadors to convey his cordial thanks for Herr Hitler's greetings which he reciprocated, together with the sincerest wishes for the welfare and prosperity of Germany.—Reuter.

In the awarding of the scholarships account will be taken of intellectual ability as decided by a written examination, character, and the financial circumstances of the parent or guardian.

Denies Two Charges Of Conversion

Former Official Of Film Company

Two charges of fraudulent conversion of money and a valuable film were preferred against Choi Pan, alias Choi Cho-pan, director of the Tai Sing Film Co. No. 80 Queen's Road Central, when he appeared before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy this morning.

The first charge alleged that he, while manager of the Sage Film Company, No. 38 Gilman's Bazaar, fraudulently converted to his own use on February 9, 1937, a sum of $100 entrusted to him as wages for Tai Hau-ho, an actress, and the second charge alleged that he fraudulently converted to his own use a film, "Romantic Angel," belonging to the Sage Film Company, on April 28, 1937.

Mr. D. McCallum appeared for the defence, and pleaded not guilty to both charges.

Mr. D. H. Blake represented the complainant, Ma Sik-chiu, treasurer of the Sage Film Co. He said that defendant while employed as manager of the Company, falsified the pay sheet, and appropriated to his own use a sum of $100 which was delivered to him for wages for Tai Hau-ho, an actress.

The film referred to in the second charge was worth about $10,000, and had been deposited by the Sage Film Company with a larger film company.

The Tai Kun, for storage, as they had better facilities. Defendant was appointed and authorised as manager, to take the film out for the purpose of making positives. Instead of doing that, he withdrew the negative on April 28, and appropriated the film to his own use. The film was now in the hands of one Lo Wing-sheung, who was holding it as a pledge against a personal loan to defendant.

Defendant had abused his rights, duties and privileges in the Company by taking money and converting it to his own use, together with a very valuable piece of property.

DEFENDANT'S CLAIMS

Replying, Mr. McCallum said defendant claimed the film as his right. From enquiries he had made, it was the Tai Kun Company who had apparently made the film for the Sage Company. The managing partner of the Sage Company, one Lo King-wai, had given certain instructions to his client, and defendant had taken the film back to the Tai Kun Company after it had been taken out. It was left there for storage pending further instructions.

Counsel understood the Sage Company was heavily in debt to the Tai Kun Company as a result of the taking of the film. It was strange that the prosecution's instructions had come from the treasurer of the Company, and it seemed to indicate that there was some trouble between the managing partner and the treasurer. If there was trouble, it might go a long way to elucidate the position.

Mr. Blake replied that there was no trouble between the managing partner and the treasurer. The managing partner had been in the course of his duties applied to the Tai Kun Company for the film, and had been told that defendant had taken it. The Tai Kun Company would appear before the Court in due course under a subpoena.

FAILED TO ATTEND

An adjournment was then made for two hours for the production of Lo Wing-sheung to prove that the film was in his possession, but Lo failed to turn up.

Mr. Blake in his turn produced Lo King-wai, and said there was no money owing by the Sage Company to the Tai Kun Company. In fact there was a small sum due to his client on the running account.

Mr. McCallum asked that bail be fixed at no more than $2,000, but this was opposed by Mr. Blake who said that the film should be handed over to his client. There was no claim against the film. It had been deposited with the Tai Kun Company for safe custody and had been taken away. His client might have need of the film.

Counsel for the defence suggested that the police might have custody of the film, and suggested that it be stored in the King's Theatre.

Detective-Sergeant C. Byron, for the police, said that might be arranged if the King's Theatre were willing to store the film, otherwise it might be stored in the Film Censors office.

His Worship then fixed bail at $500 on condition that the film be handed over to the police for custody, but if that was not done, bail would stand at $5,000. Hearing of the case was provisionally fixed for 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 25.

FAILED TO NOTIFY POLICE OF MOVE

Pleading that she had only moved about eight houses away, Wong Wan-shi, 30-year-old married woman and employer of a maid, was fined $20 by Mr. E. Himsworth at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when she was summoned for failing to notify the S.C.A. of her change of address.

Mr. H. W. Fraser, Inspector of Mui Tsai, said that on April 22, a lady inspector had gone to 252 Reclamation Street to see the mul-tal. She was informed by the neighbours that defendant had moved to No. 234 on March 2.

The girl was exceptionally well treated, but quite a number of registered mui tsai were missing because their employers had not notified their changes of address.

POLAND WANTS JAMES

(By John MacAdam)

ALEX JAMES, Arsenal inside-left and football genius of the century, may go to Poland as a Soccer coach.

James, who has not yet re-signed for Arsenal, has been offered £25 a week by the Polish Football Association to coach their team next season. The Arsenal star, who has several businesses in the south of England, is seriously considering the Polish offer.

On the other hand, Arsenal want him to sign as a player for next season and also renew his activities as amateur coach, with the possibility of becoming a paid coach to the club when his playing days are over.

James, who was not included in the Arsenal team in an important match against Chelsea yesterday, despite the fact that he is fit and well, was front page news in one of the chief Polish newspapers.

Tsui & Choy In French Tennis Championship

Paris, May 18. The French tennis championships started at the Stade Roland Garros to-day, among the entrants being Tsui Wai-pui, former Hongkong champion, and W. C. Choy, both members of the Chinese Davis Cup team.

Partnering together in the men's doubles, Tsui and Choy opposed Journu and Martin le Goy of France in the first round. The Chinese were actually leading four games to one in the first set when a terrific thunderstorm broke over the courts and prevented further play to-day.—Reuter.

HOW R.U.R. RECOVERED AND SAVED THE GAME

COLONY CHAMPS: IMPRESS MANILA

Manila, April 15. Under the lights at Rizal Track, Football Stadium last night, a merry battle was waged in the opening of the eight-game series between the Royal Ulster Rifles, champions of Hongkong, and local teams. The first battle found the University of Santo Tomas carrying the local colours and after the full regulation time was ended, the teams were deadlocked at 2 goals each, says the Manila Bulletin.

Those who are familiar with the game of football saw a new style exhibited by the invaders. Instead of the orthodox practice of kicking a goal kick as far out as possible, the British boys depended to a great extent on short forward kicks to one of their own players, thereby keeping control of the ball instead of merely taking a chance on one of their men being on the receiving end. They saw a short passing game, while though rugged at times, gave later promises of the brilliance that the British are noted for.

SOME OF THE CLEVEREST EVER

They saw some of the cleverest footwork that has been seen on a local field, a footwork that was one of the shining lights of the contest. Time and time again the Royal Ulster Rifles players kept control of the ball by the deft using of their feet. In their short passing, they were invincible, but when this short game got beyond the 15 yard limit it broke up. It is possible that the lights may have had something to do with this, seeing it was the first time the newcomers had ever played under artificial lighting, but it is also a credit to the U.S.T. players that they were in front of the ball all through the first half and played very aggressively.

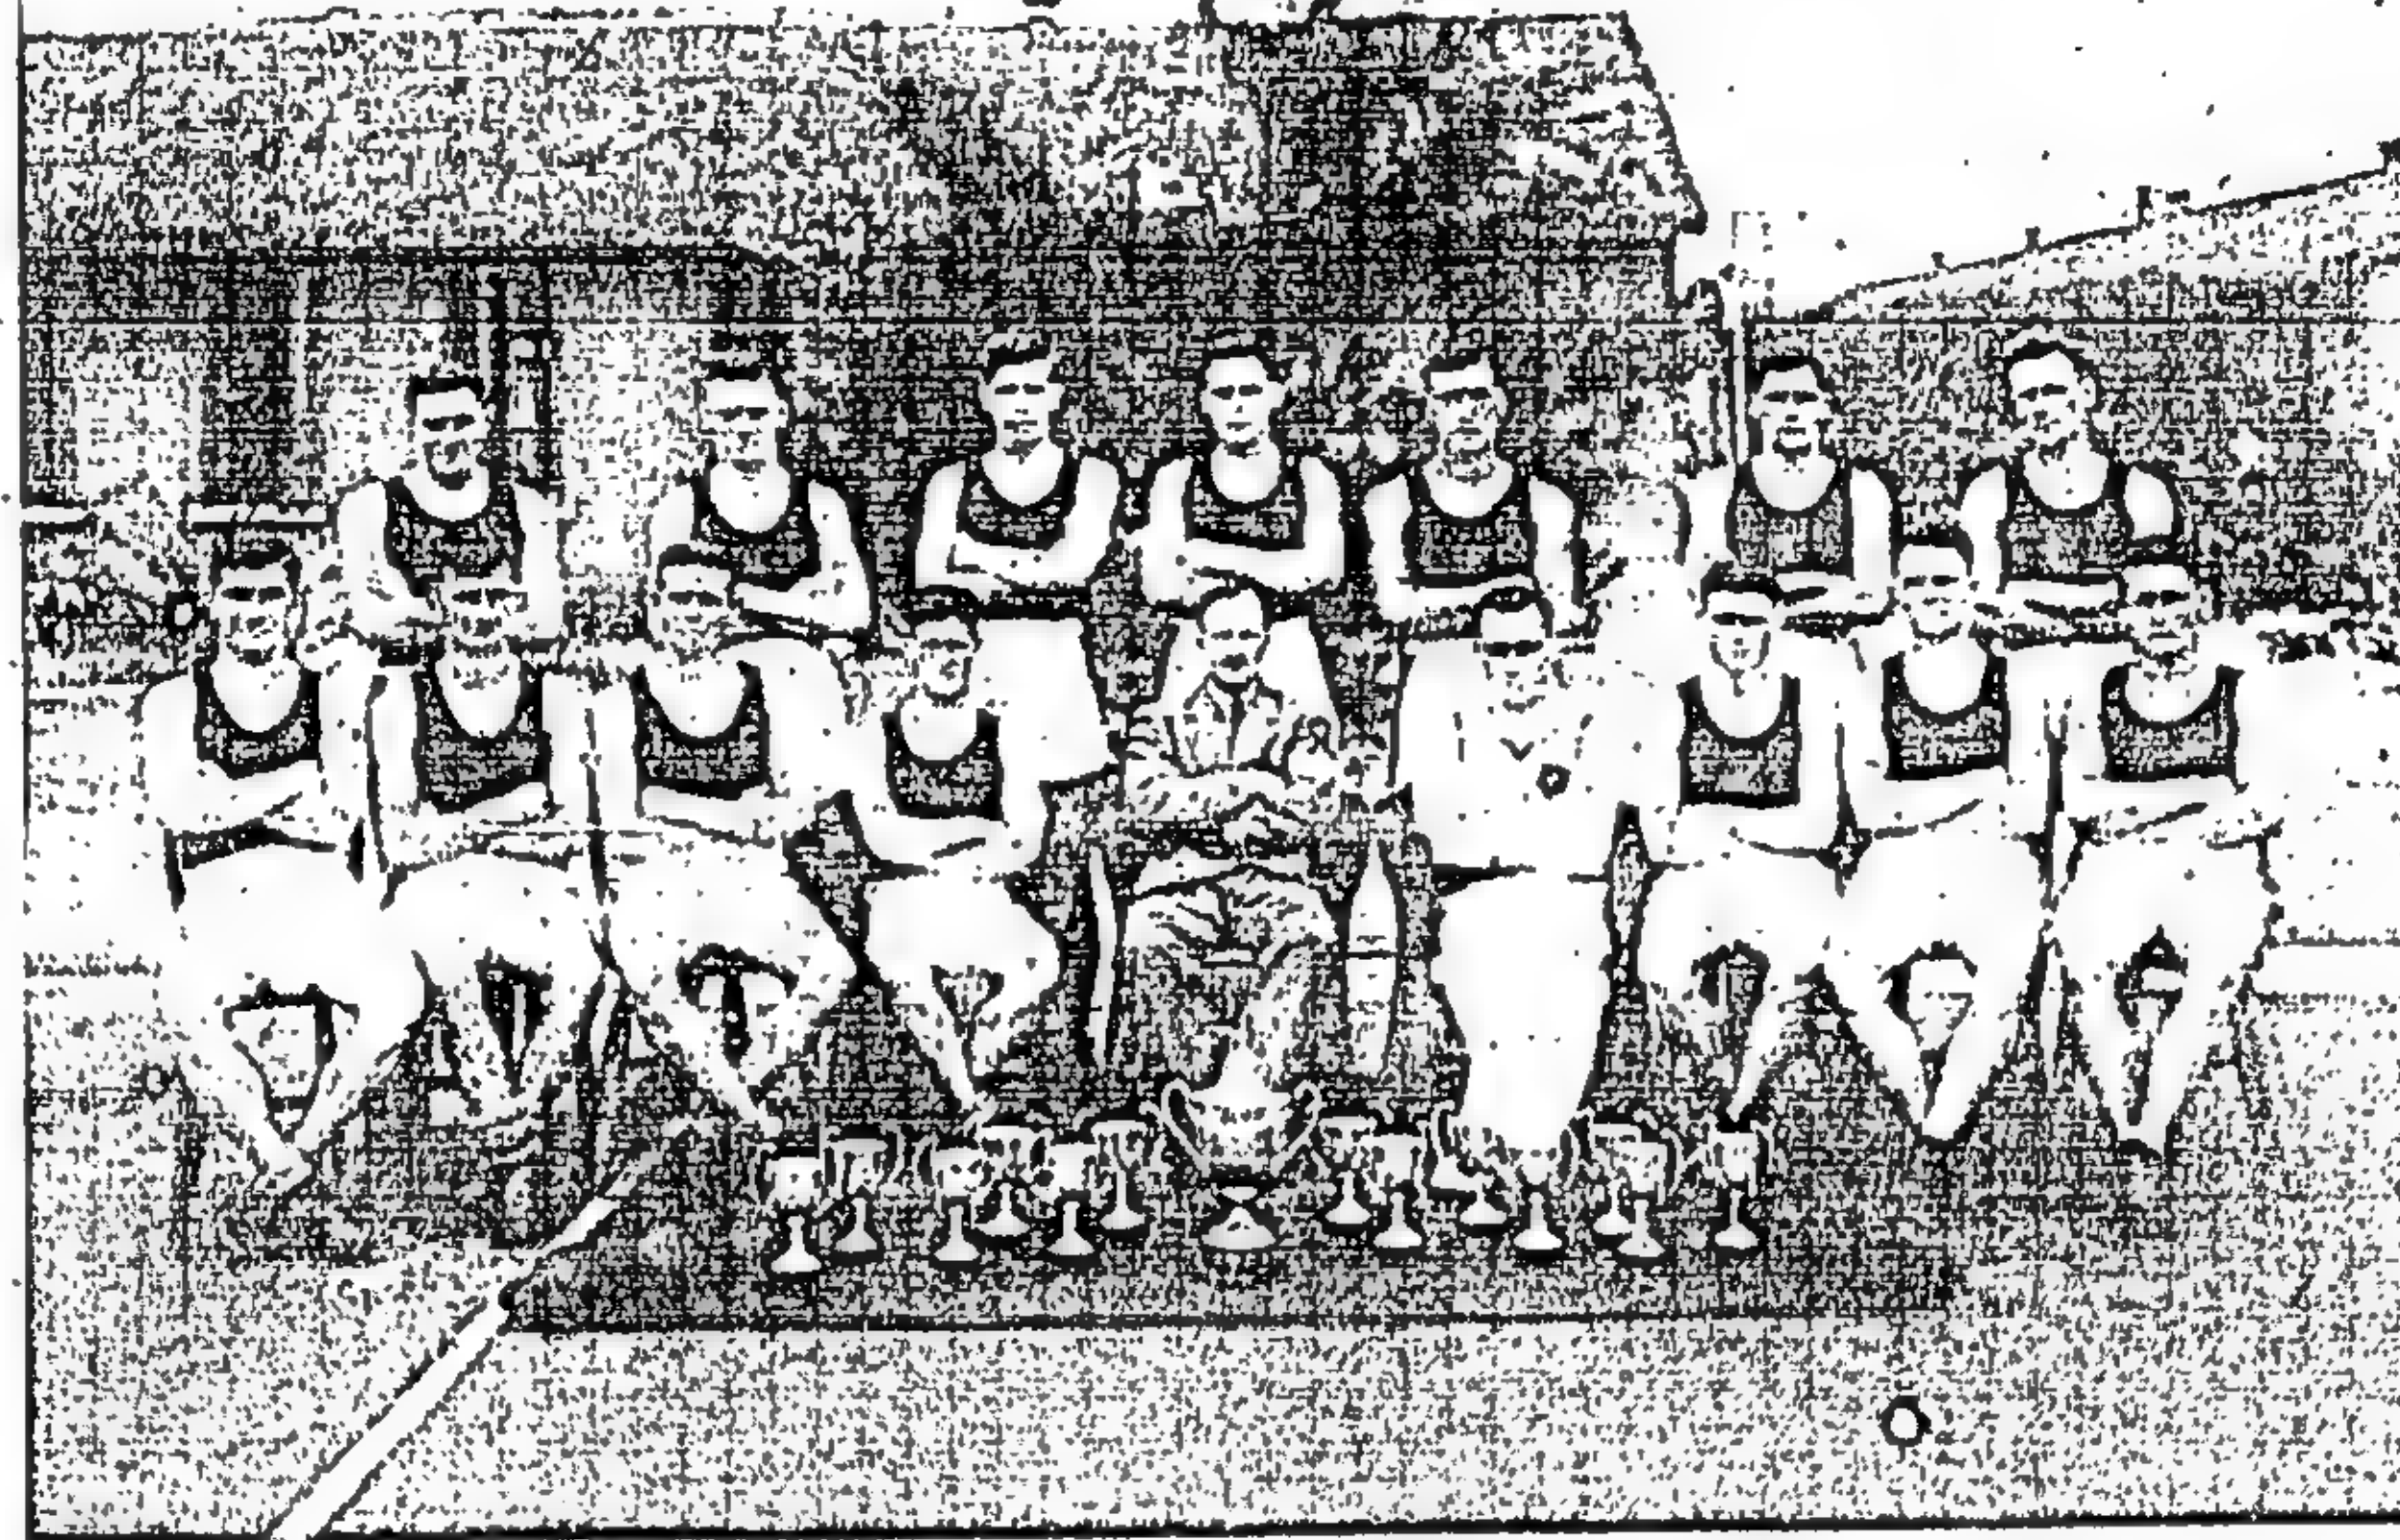

The kick-off was at 8.30 sharp and from the start U.S.T. took the offensive, scoring their first goal, and the first of the series, on a ball headed through by D. Franchesco on a kick in from right wing. For the remainder of the period the local team had control of the ball for the greater part of the play, this mainly due to the fact that the Royal Ulsters were very inaccurate in their kicking, shooting the ball directly into U.S.T. men on most occasions. With U.S.T. still outshining the British, especially in defensive play, the half ended with a score of 1-0 in favour of St. Tomas.

Contrary to the Eastern Chinese aggregations and locals as well, the Hongkong eleven retired to the dressing room between halves, during which short period something must have been said that fired the spark necessary to wake them up a bit, for from the very outset of the second half it was merely a question of whether or not U.S.T. could stave off the inevitable.

HOME TEAM OUTPLAYED

They were outplayed completely, resorting time and time again to kicking the ball hurriedly in a desperate effort to either get rid of it or kick it outside to stop an offensive of the visitors.

BOWLERS REAP RICH HARVEST IN COUNTY CRICKET MATCHES

HOCKEY PROTEST REJECTED

AN APPEAL TO SPORTSMANSHIP

The Rev. J. R. Higgs, Vice-President of the Manak Hockey Tournament, emphatically stressed the need of a higher standard of sportsmanship at hockey when an extraordinary general committee meeting of the Manak Hockey Tournament was held at St. Andrew's Church Hall yesterday.

The meeting dealt with a letter from the Secretary of the Central British Association, regarding the ruling given by the Executive Committee to a protest received from the C.B.A. alleging the Radio Sports Club played an ineligible player in the Championship match, on April 22, which Radio won.

Capt. G. W. P. Kimm (Chairman) was assisted by the Rev. J. R. Higgs (Vice-President), Conductor G. E. Clarke (Secretary) and Sub-Insp. L. T. Tyler (Secretary of the Hockey Association).

Representatives of the following teams were present: R.E., R.A.O.C., K.I.T.C., Radio, Nomads, Argonauts, R.U.R., R.C. Signals, R.W.F. and C.B.A.

The Central British Association based their allegation on the rule "A player may not play for more than one club in one season without permission from the Executive Committee and the Clubs concerned."

In the game between the K.I.T.C. and the Argonauts the K.I.T.C. team were short of one man and the captain of the Tennis Club invited C. Singh, who was a spectator, to fill the vacant position. This was done and the game was played.

After the match between the Radio and the C.B.A. the Secretary of the C.B.A. protested that the Radio team played Singh.

Mr. Kimm who was on the field asked Singh if he had played for any other club before that particular game. He replied in the negative.

A witness then testified that Singh playing in hockey kit but in long was a member of the Radio Sports Club, and also added that he had played for the Radio Sports Club in hockey games before the match between K.I.T.C. and Argonauts.

"NO CONTRAVENTION"

Mr. Higgs remarked that he thought that the rule had not been contravened.

The protest was then put to the vote and was dismissed by eight votes to six. Representatives of the C.B.A. and Radio Sports Club did not vote. Concluding the meeting Mr. Higgs said: "I think we all should aim at hockey of a higher standard of sportsmanship. Let us get down to good clean hockey. After all what I have heard this evening I feel the days of tournament hockey are over."

The Chairman then announced that there was $300 left over at the end of the season and suggested that those present think of a means of disposing of it. The idea of a dinner dance was suggested and as this was unanimously seconded a sub-committee was formed to take charge of this.

BUTLER TAKES 8 FOR 15 FOR NOTTS

YORKSHIRE BEAT LANCASTHIRE

London, May 1. Yorkshire won the first round in the annual cricket "Battle of the Roses", beating Lancashire at Manchester to-day by ten wickets.

Verity again came into the limelight when in Lancashire's second innings he took 4 for 43. Paynter batted resolutely for the losers and scored a fine 88 out of a total of 197. Yorkshire were on top all the time and won deservedly.

Of the six county matches which ended to-day, five carried decisive results. Scoring generally was very low and bowlers reaped rich harvests. Among the best bowling performances of the day were:

Butler's 8 for 15 for Notts against Surrey.

Boyes 7 for 55 for Hampshire against Kent.

Hampson's 6 for 26 for Gloucester against Somerset.

Goddard's 6 for 65 for Hampshire against Somerset.

Todd's 6 for 87 for Kent against Hampshire.

Boucher's 5 for 22 and 5 for 23 for the Gentlemen of Ireland against the Minor Counties.

Only four centuries were recorded in the entire first-class programme, these being:

Prentice (Leicester) v Northants 127.

Allen (Gloucester) v Somerset 123.

McCorkell (Hampshire) v Kent 108.

Duckfield (Glamorgan) v N.Z. 101.

The detailed results as cable by Reuter, follow:

WEYMOUTH F.C. IN TROUBLE

CENSURED BY F.A. COMMISSION

A Commission of the Football Association, sitting at Weymouth under the chairmanship of Mr. H. J. Huband, found proved against the Weymouth F.C. allegations that irregular payments had been made to amateur players for fees.

The Commission decided:

(1) The club had failed to comply with the rules of the F.A. relating to payment to amateur players and that receipts for expenses paid were not obtained on the prescribed forms.

(2) No evidence was before the Commission that the players in question had forfeited their amateur status.

(3) That for this neglect the club is severely censured, and ordered to pay the costs of the inquiry.

LIKELY TO PROVE THE BIGGEST ATTRACTION

Hongkong v. Siam In Badminton Match

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

(By "Veritas")

WHILE the chief object of the visit to Hongkong of a Siamese badminton team is to engage Colony exponents in badminton, the local public will probably derive considerable more thrills and interest from watching the visitors give demonstrations of the famous ball game which is Siam's national pastime.

Not only have the visiting Siamese badmintonists promised to give exhibitions of the game at the close of Friday's and Saturday's badminton matches, but they have brought with them none other than Rangsit Puntumsut, Siam's champion performer, so that Hongkong will be able to gain a very accurate idea of the remarkable skill and ingenuity which the game demands.

The badminton court is used for the game, with two players on either side of the net. The ball, which is kicked from player to player is made of rattan and it requires exceptional ability to control such an object.

Like badminton the method of scoring a point is to get the ball down to the ground on the other side of the net. Points are lost by netting or by kicking outside of the court boundaries.

The rules of the game also bear some relation to that of football. The ball may be headed, breasted or kneeled, but no part of the arms or hands may be used to control it. A player may juggle with the ball on his foot, kicking it three times before sending it over the net, but inter-passing between the partners is not permitted.

VERY SPECTACULAR

The game is extraordinarily spectacular. Players leap high into the air to drive the ball back, and uncanny judgment is shown in lobbing and dropping the ball. Rallies usually are not long, but the play is very fast and certainly most interesting.

Demonstrations of the game will be a feature of the unofficial Interport programme of badminton matches which has been arranged between the Siamese and Hongkong.

The programme will extend over two evenings. There will be one singles and two doubles badminton matches on both Friday and Saturday of this week, the teams having already been nominated.

Here is the proposed schedule and players:

FRIDAY

Chart Shaw (Siam) v. P. H. Wenz (Hongkong).

Umpon and Lek (Siam) v. W. C. Choy and S. P. Chan (Hongkong).

Chart Shaw and Choot Shaw (Siam) v. T. C. Lee and P. K. Hul (Hongkong).

SATURDAY

Chart Shaw (Siam) v. P. K. Hul (Hongkong).

Umpon and Lek (Siam) v. M. A. Oliveira and J. J. Remedios (Hongkong).

Chart Shaw and Choot Shaw (Siam) v. P. H. Wenz and C. E. Chng (Hongkong).

It will thus be seen that Patrick H. Wong, Colony singles champion, and P. K. Hul, who is recognised as our No. 2 singles player, will engage the visitors' nominated players in singles matches.

In the doubles, the Colony's champions, P. H. Wong and C. E. Chng, and the runners-up in the recent championships, M. A. Oliveira and J. J. Remedios, will participate, the third pair being two well-known players in W. C. Choy and S. P. Chan.

Hongkong has thus paid the visitors the compliment of turning out at their strongest team.

FAST AND HARD HITTERS

The Siamese have demonstrated by the two practices they have enjoyed that they will hold their own against the Colony's leading players. The visitors hit very hard, and make very good use of the court. They prefer the one-up-one-back formation, and play together with good understanding.

The event is somewhat historic as it is the first time a Badminton Interport of this description has been played in the Colony. One again the Club de Recreio has kindly placed its court at the disposal of the Badminton Association, and it is hoped there will be capacity crowds to give the Siamese a warm welcome on Friday and Saturday. Admission will be 50 cents each evening.

But for the necessity of an early return, the Siamese would be able to engage local clubs in matches. But they must leave on Sunday and this gives no time for any lengthy programme as at first anticipated.

However, this evening they will engage Recreio players in a knock-out at the Portuguese club, King's Park, though the event is in the nature of a private affair.

They will probably rest on Thursday in preparation for their strenuous programme on Friday and Saturday.

SIAM'S SPORTS CHIEF HERE

Accompanying the players is Mr. K. Buranavetya, who is Chief of the Schools' Athletic Sports Section, attached to the Physical Education Department of Bangkok. Mr. Buranavetya has taken the opportunity of this tour to come here with the players chiefly with the idea of studying games in Hongkong and to gain new ideas. It is hoped during this week that it will be possible for him to visit local schools to observe their games schedule and thus to gain valuable ideas.

Siam is taking sport very seriously these days and are striving for an improved standard of play in all branches.

Tommy Farr To Fight Neusel

TOMMY FARR, the British heavyweight champion, who recently defeated Max Baer, the American, at Harringay, will have for his next opponent Walter Neusel, the German boxer, on May 31 or June 15.

Neusel has twice beaten Jack Petersen and gained one victory over Ben Ford on occasions when each man was the English champion.

Mr. Sydney Hull, the promoter, will stage the bout at White City or Harringay arena.

ENGLAND-AUSTRALIA CROQUET

McRobertson Matches This Summer

Five croquet matches between England and Australia for the McRobertson Trophy, now held by Australia, will be played as follows: At Harringay, July 12 and 13; at Cheltenham, July 23 and 24; at Buxton, July 30 and 31; at Southampton, August 20 and 21; at Southwick, September 4 and 5.

The English team will be chosen shortly before each match. The Selection Committee is Lt.-Col. W. B. Du Pre, Miss D. D. Steel, and Sir F. Colchester-Wemyss.

M. C. C. CRICKETERS RETURN

Farnes Not Going To Live In Australia

The M.C.C. cricketers arrived at Plymouth last month on their return from Australia, looking fit and well. But none of them would give interviews; they would not even say which train they would catch to London. It is understood that their contracts prohibit them from giving interviews and writing books or articles on the tour within twelve months of its conclusion.

Farnes, however, denied the report that he would retire from English cricket and accept a scholastic appointment in Melbourne. "So far as I know," he said, "I shall be ready to play in England this season."

In addition to Capt. R. Howard, the team-manager, there were fourteen players in the party. All those on the injury list, Duckworth, Wyatt, Fishlock, and Ames, are now fit again.

Captain Howard declined to be drawn into discussion upon controversial points, saying: "I have to make a report to Lord's very shortly of anything of interest." Captain Howard did say, however, that the team played very satisfactorily. "I am sorry," he added, "we disappointed everybody—everybody in England, that is. The spirit of the games was splendid all through. There was some backsliding, but none of an intensive kind. It was all good humoured. Australia, he thought, had some fine young cricketers developing—notably Badcock, Gregory, Robinson, and Hassett. Hassett did not take part in a Test, but he played a splendid innings for Victoria against M.C.C."

The players were welcomed at Paddington by Lord Hawkes, Lord Lucan, Mr. P. F. Warner, and several other prominent members of the M.C.C. Lt.-Col. R. S. Rail-Kerr, secretary of M.C.C., Mr. R. Ald (assistant secretary), Sir Stanley Jackson, Sir Kynaston Studd, R. W. V. Rains, and Sir Walter Allen (G. O. Allen's father) were also present.

THE LATE MR. G. A. CARIDIA

Great Lawn Tennis Player

H. S. Scrivenor writes that Mr. George Aristides Caridia, whose death at the age of 68 occurred recently, was in his younger days one of the foremost lawn tennis players in the country, and perhaps in the world. A daring hitter, he was famous for his fondness for the half-volley, which he executed with as much confidence as if it were just an ordinary shot. For this reason he excelled on the wooden floor of a covered court, and competed regularly at the Craigside indoor meeting at Llandudno for 21 years, winning the singles nine times and reaching the final in his last year.

He had but one Wimbledon success to his credit, a second in the men's doubles with the late A. W. Gore in 1904. Caridia had been for many years honorary treasurer to the All England L.T.C., whose members will miss his urbanity in addition to the valuable services which he rendered to the club.

ULSTERS DRAW

Manila, May 18. The Royal Ulster Rifles drew with the Y. C. O. soccer team to-day, four all.—Reuter.

HOW THE ROYAL ULSTER RIFLES RECOVERED

Royal Ulsters. But a break, followed by a long kick, sent the ball sailing down the field right in front of Martinez, inside right player, who dribbled a bit and then shot the prettiest goal of the game, a hard straight shot that sailed over goalie Connor's head and into the net, thus making the score 2-0 in favour of the local team.

It might have seemed to most of the spectators that this was the winning margin but it was the last threat made by U.S.T. who from then on were completely on the defensive. The British eleven swarmed all around the goal and controlled the ball during at least three fourths of the play keeping goalie Black plenty busy. With about ten minutes to play Capt. Moore, star centre forward of the Royal Ulsters, received a ball from the right side of the line and converted on a fine kick from almost directly in front of the goal, about ten yards out.

In just a short time afterwards another kick from the right wing was headed goalward by inside right Doherty, a play that caught Black flatfooted, the ball rolling through without being touched and thus ending the scoring for the night.

PROMINENT PLAYERS

For U.S.T. the most credit goes to the defence players. Black made some very pretty stops and both the halves and the full backs repeatedly broke up British formations. For the Royal Ulsters, offensive honours go chiefly to Moore and the wing players Ferguson and Erwin, with the vaunted defence holding up very well.

The game may well be used for close study by local footballers. A lesson in short passing and playing the ball to the wingmen in order to allow the centre of the line to consolidate its scoring position, can be used to good advantage, and decision to relay the ball backwards, to someone on your own side, instead of depending on a wild, hurried, and in most cases inaccurate forward kick, is something of the utmost value.

It most certainly looks like a British team, creaking as they were in the second half, will bring out the best football in the local eleven and afford the fans football as they like it.

AN EMPEROR AND HIS TUMOR

Recalling Some Memories Of The Famous Sung Rock By

C. VAN LEO

SIX HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS AGO an Emperor of China, displaced from his Throne by an invading foe, sought safety in headlong flight. Behind him pressed relentlessly the Tartar Horde, and, although almost an entire continent had been crossed and privations suffered such as the very pity of it would have turned aside a less inveterate enemy, the pursuit continued to its bitter and tragic end.

Here, at Land's End, where no further flight had seemed possible: on a high promontory at Kowloon Bay which might very well be for him the terrestrial confines of that old world of which he had been accustomed to regard his far-flung Empire as seemingly representing the orbit, the fugitive died by his own hand—a victim to his own despair and wretchedness.

Thus had passed away Tuan T'ung, the last of his clan, and with him also ended a famous dynasty whose glorious deeds had painted the best part of 200 years of Chinese history. Killed in a hundred-foot drop, Tuan T'ung's body floated from the foot of the precipice, many leagues out to sea. A current miraculously supported and carried it to the sands of Chekwan, and, here, a time-worn tablet, venerated by thousands of pilgrims worshipping at a famous Temple, now marks the last resting-place, although the remains, if actually there, had long since disappeared.

That Tumor!

Other dynasties succeeding the Sung had come and gone, before the dawning of a latter-day Republic. But Tradition, ever ready to serve a romantic figure, has clung to the days of the ill-fated Sung monarch with a wealth of picturesque detail that has been handed down by generations of Old Kowloon City residents even unto this day. But the most impressive because of the homely touch it imparts, is our understanding of this lonely, individual standing, out so pathetically from this period of Chinese history, deals with his affliction from a bold which has accompanied him through his wanderings.

At the worst it might have been only a tumor, but the Royal prerogative had magnified it into a malignant agent of his ill luck which had come to crown the sufferings then crowding on him. At any rate, a Minister, companion in his travels, with some pretensions to medical knowledge, had tried to cure the boil for him, and, in dying prematurely, had grieved for leaving the task unfinished.

A Supernatural Cure

But the disorder not long afterwards subsided; the Emperor, we are told, was again able to sit, and the cure that had defied all human efforts, was ascribed to a supernatural agency—the posthumous intervention, nothing less, of the departed Minister.

Well might the Emperor have expressed, in the form of his gratefulness to one who in death had remained faithful as in life, "Yang, the Faithful, was posthumously created a Duke and, as the Han Wong Temple, this mark of Royal favour was afterwards dedicated in an edifice that has ever endured. The Temple still stands on the hill behind Old Kowloon City when I visited it the other day, the Mecca for an annual pilgrimage though successive renovations have transformed its original appearance.

Not long after the incident occurred as recorded, the Emperor was once again being closely harassed by the near approach of the enemy. History or that part of it which may be accepted as nearly representing the truth, has invested the great Kublai, Grand Khan of Tartary, with a single-mindedness of purpose that brooked no opposition. A great statesman, too, he must have been if he had believed that no structure of his own could be solidly built unless that which it was designed to support was completely destroyed, for and he could see the banners of the approaching Golden Horde streaming in over the passes.

The Black Rock

The black Rock crowning the precipice from whose high summit he cast himself into the sea, is curiously shaped, its northern face overhanging so as to form an idyllic shelter from sun and rain, as it undoubtedly must have when Tuan T'ung lived under it, ever dreading the hour when from that commanding position he would see the banners of the approaching Golden Horde streaming in over the passes. If he had written the poem attributed to him on the face of the huge boulder, I fancy it must have sounded the note of a bottomless despair of an unutterable loneliness in a wilderness deserted even by his most trusted retainers, now finding common cause in a mortal fear and headlong flight from a ferocious enemy. Such would have been its message had the poem endured; but like compositions of lesser poets who in after years had insisted on adding their quota to the first, it had been effected by the hand of time and weather.

Now only three characters in heroic size subscribed by a later generation stand out chiseled in the Rock—and they no more than serve the purpose of directing attention to it as being the spot from which the fatal leap was taken. Of course, the Rock is not without a certain allure inherent to all old traditions, and it does continue to inspire an unexplainable veneration one always has for old places and things. The impression is heightened by the care since taken to preserve this visible link remaining to the glory with its earliest known history. The surrounding area has been closed in, and this with the vegetation, has imparted an atmosphere of quiet seclusion making the short walk up the hill all the more charming for expectation of the old relic the visitor will find at the top.

The area has, by special Government ordinance, been set apart as a public reservation. I expect the time may not be far distant when with more land being requested and added to it, it will be possible to make it one of the Colony's most interesting public parks, and an irresistible show-places for tourists. As it is, the signal post now standing on the boundary, with an arm pointing to "The Hill of the King of the Sung" (or was it "The King of the Niebelungs"?), may well for the visitor mark his point of entry into another world—an old world peopled with the shades of despairing Emperors and faithful Ministers whose devotion was carried beyond the grave.

GRAVES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

A RECENT article appeared in the Evening Dispatch, dealing with the graves of famous men, set me thinking about the graves of famous women. Not so many of them rise to mind. Few, alas, if any, of the women famous on their own merits will be found in Westminster Abbey. Nevertheless, there are certain graves which should not be overlooked.

In the course of summer holiday wanderings, sometimes as the result of careful planning, at other times quite accidentally, I have come upon the graves of women that are world-famous. The grave of Florence Nightingale was one of those discovered quite by chance.

I had just finished tea in a little timbered cafe with blue tencups and baid curtains and decorations of summer-green beech-leaves at Ramsey in the New Forest country, and I was casually turning over the pages of a guidebook, when I suddenly realised that her early home and her graves were but a few miles distant.

"F. N."

A short car-run took me there. Skirting the environs of Miss Nightingale's early home, Embley Park, where the opening scenes of the famous play, "The Lady with the Lamp," take place, I passed on to the little village of West Wellow. There, in a country churchyard, retired and secluded—I wonder whether any poor wretched frame quietly under the church pavement. We are very calm at present. Why should we be other-wise? The anguish of seeing her suffer is over; the spectacle of the pains of death is gone by; the funeral is past. We feel that she is at peace. No need now to tremble for Florence's side all that is written in "F. N." and the dates of her birth and death—no record of her achievements, no mention of the Crimea or her wonderful work there! All around her are the worn country tombstones which mark the graves of the humble village folk.

After Florence Nightingale, the nurse whose name is best known to me, is probably Edith Cavell. I found her grave in a green space beside Norwich Cathedral, carefully tended and flower-covered.

The Bronte Sisters

My visit to the Bronte graves was, on the contrary, premeditated, long looked forward to. Beneath the pavement of the old church at Haworth the remains of Charlotte and Emily were laid to rest—Anne rests at Scarborough, while she had gone in search of the health denied her. The funeral processions of the famous sisters had but a short distance to cross between their home and their graves. They passed through the little patch of garden in front of the parsonage, through the little gate which, it is said, was never opened save for a funeral to pass through, and crossed the dismal churchyard, the constant sight of which, bordering the parsonage on two sides, was well fitted to prey upon the sensitive minds of the sisters. Many were the funerals which followed each other in quick succession through that gate, many the Bronte names recorded on the tablet on the wall of the church.

A few days after Emily Bronte died, Charlotte, writing to a friend, said: "There is no Emily in time or on earth now. Yesterday we put her poor wasted frame quietly under the church pavement. We are very calm at present. Why should we be other-wise? The anguish of seeing her suffer is over; the spectacle of the pains of death is gone by; the funeral is past. We feel that she is at peace. No need now to tremble for Florence's side all that is written in "F. N." and the dates of her birth and death—no record of her achievements, no mention of the Crimea or her wonderful work there! All around her are the worn country tombstones which mark the graves of the humble village folk."

The Jane Austen Tablet

At Winchester I found Jane Austen's grave. Like Anne Bronte,

she had left home in search of health, having gone to Winchester, accompanied by her devoted sister Cassandra, to consult a specialist. They lodged in a pleasant-looking house in College Street. A plaque on the wall records the fact that Jane Austen died there. The house overlooks the beautiful garden belonging to the headmaster of the College, and tall hollyhocks peep at it over the railings.

Miss Austen's body was laid to rest in Winchester Cathedral, near the tomb of William of Wykeham. She was remembered only by the usual memorial tablet, for she, being a woman, was not at her death apparently considered unworthy of eulogy. A later generation, however, thought differently—her literary contribution had been assessed by that time—and another stone was added recording her virtues and accomplishments.

Mrs. Carlyle's Epitaph

The grave of Jane Welsh Carlyle is found not at Ecclefechan beside her husband's, but at Haddington. Standing gazing at it through the enclosing railings, I summoned up a picture of Jane, gay and bright and full of life in her girlhood's home nearby. Again I saw her, willing on a sofa at Cheyne Row, Chelsea, for what reason speculation has never settled. She could have carved out a life on her own—she had great brilliancy; but she must needs submerge herself in housekeeping and for her, one feels that was a mistake. She loved her husband, but he was morose, much occupied with his literary work, protesting ever against interruption, and so, by and by, she slipped into invalidism, and then, all too soon, into her grave beneath the shelter of the "Lamp of Lothian." The words which Carlyle wrote for her epitaph are surely, among the most exquisitely tender ever penned. Among other graves to which I still hope to make pilgrimages are those Elizabeth Barrett Browning, George Eliot, Christina Rossetti, and Mary Webb.

CASHING A CHEQUE

By A CASHIER

HAVE you ever been struck by the easy and simple method with which a cheque over the counter at a bank? The cashier receives the cheque, glances at the back to see that the endorsement is in order, and hands over the money in cash or notes as required. It is a process probably makes you think how easy it would be to "do" the bank, if you felt inclined.

But it is not so simple as it seems. A cashier, as you may imagine, must always be on the look-out for any kind of discrepancy. He must be observant, quick, and sure. Cunning brains are continually devising ways and means to outwit his vigilance.

If you were a stranger presenting on "open" cheque, I should be very careful to take stock of your appearance, and I should glance at you several times during the transaction—when you hand the cheque across the counter and when you receive your change, possibly prolonging the transaction for a little further glance with a remark about the weather, if on glancing at him a second time I the amount happened to be fairly large, thus getting a mental picture of your features, should it be necessary.

From 8 to 80

Although the whole business may not have lasted more than a few minutes I should have looked very carefully at the signature, and even entered it in the book, blotting it on a necessarily satisfactory me.

Cheque manipulators remove the "crossing" of a cheque with chemicals, and knowing that the cashier must immediately detect the discoloration caused by this process they told the cheque, the crosses shading it where the "crossing" lines would run. The cheque I am cashing may have been folded in the post. I must satisfy myself that the lines are really genuine crosses and not "crossed" "crossing".

Another thing I have glanced at is the amount of the cheque, to see that nothing has been added to it, as off.

some cheques lend themselves to easy increase. For instance, a cheque for £8 can easily be altered into £80 with the simple addition of a "y" to the written figure and an "0" to the figure. Some time ago a gang of cheque crooks hit on a scheme for collecting cheques for this amount. They sold goods worth £10 for £8, thereby collecting a number of cheques for this amount. Careful manipulation converted them into £80, and one or two were cashed before they were discovered.

A Hurried Departure

I had been a cashier for only a short time when I nearly fell into a trap. A man hurried in—a butcher from a nearby shop—wearing the accustomed blue apron—and passed me a cheque for £200. Although I had the counter and when you receive your change, possibly prolonging the transaction for a little further glance with a remark about the weather, if on glancing at him a second time I the amount happened to be fairly large, thus getting a mental picture of your features, should it be necessary.

Another clever scheme that failed to bring the desired result, was that of a man who forged a cheque before entering the bank, but pretended to write it at the counter, blotting it on the pad. The "signature" was that of a customer whose appearance were so rare that no cashier knew him well by sight, and there was no reason for the cashier to suspect forgery.

But it happened that he noticed that the ink on the cheque had dried, and glancing at the blotting pad he saw that it was still clean. The forgery plot failed, but had the criminal thought out all the details and remembered the blotting paper, it would probably have come off.

Singapore Thrives On Industries

Britain Determined To Stay In East

Editor Discusses
Malaya's Future

"Malaya is a country which has all her eggs in two baskets. These two baskets are tin and rubber, and both are of vital importance to countries which are preparing for war. As the whole world is arming to the teeth, it is not surprising that it is seeking these commodities, especially tin, in large quantities. As a result, prices have skyrocketed to dizzy heights, and rubber, which fell to two pence per pound during the worst period of the depression, is now in the region of a shilling, while tin, which dropped to the region of £100 per ton, is now up around £250."

Mr. F. Stefan, editor of the Singapore Free Press opened an interview yesterday with these remarks. He passed through Hongkong by the Dollar liner President Lincoln, en route to Japan and the United States on his honeymoon.

But while Malaya is enjoying an unprecedented wave of prosperity, the veteran newspaper sees "a fly in the ointment." "Everyone in Malaya is making hay while the sun shines," he said. "While they are making hay, however, the European community is forgetting the great bogey of Japanese competition. Malaya's experience of this competition is similar to that of other parts of the East. She has tried to meet this competition with such measures as textile quotas."

"Where Japanese economic penetration is going to be cannot say, but Britons, fortunately, have a genius for solving their problems by compromise, and possibly they will resort to this method in Singapore in the present case."

SINGAPORE FORTRESS

"The whole world, of course, is interested in Singapore as a fortress, but the visitor who looks in vain for bristling guns and other warlike signs, though enormous sums have been poured out in defence and the naval base, now nearing completion, will be one of the finest in the world. "Considerable importance is also attached to aerial defence and there are now four service aerodromes and a magnificent new civil aerodrome, costing nearly £1,000,000. This can accommodate both land and sea planes."

"The garrison strength has also been increased considerably and with the ring of fortifications, both on the island itself and the small neighbouring islands, they should render Singapore impregnable to any direct attack."

"Malaya is also looking to her 'back door' defences and the island of Penang, on the west coast, is also to be fortified, while measures are under consideration for a chain of aerodromes to guard the approaches down the east coast in case any attempt should be made to strike from the direction of Sumatra."

"All this must be done in relation to the big new defences which are to be constructed in Hongkong, and from all the signs it would seem that Britain has no intention of 'scuttling' out of the Far East."

"Her interests in the East are too big and vital for her to do so. Perhaps when other countries realise this it will lead to a more realistic appreciation of the realities of the situation."

"It cannot be pretended that the outlook is bright, but with a little more 'give and take' on both sides, it is not unlikely that our worst fears may never be realised."

PLAN FOR WINDSOR'S WEDDING

Quiet Ceremony On June 3

Monts, May 18.
Mrs. Herman Rogers to-day published a communique from the Duke of Windsor stating that he and Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the former Miss Warfield, would be married at Candé on June 3. No member of the British Royal Family would be present, it is stated.

The communique insists that only those who have been with the Duke or Mrs. Simpson since November will attend. The communique calls Mrs. Simpson by her christian name throughout.

The limited wedding party will likely include Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Badaux, Mrs. Merriman, aunt of Mrs. Simpson, Baron de Rothechild of Enzefeld and his American wife, The British Minister, Sir Welford Selby and Lady Selby, who were closely associated with the Duke while he was in Australia, will also attend, if the Foreign Office approves.

The wedding falls on the birthday of King George and Derby Day. The communique consisted of a typewritten sheet read to 100 journalists at the gateway of the Chateau Candé. Before reading it Mrs. Rogers asked two British journalists to verify whether the 100 men and women assembled were bona fide newspaper people. She asked the police to remove cameramen.—United Press.

A Reuter message states that the wedding ceremony will be performed by M. Mercier, Mayor of Monts.

FIERCE FIGHT FOR MOUNTAIN KEY POSITION

Insurgents Bombarding Government Lines

Madrid, May 18.

While the Insurgents are still pressing their offensive against Bilbao, the Government troops are active in the Province of Leon, among the mountains separating the province from Asturias.

The Insurgents have launched a land and sea attack against the Government positions on Mount Jata, which slopes to the sea between Bermeo and Andraecas, barring the Insurgent advance in much the same way that Mount Sollube did, a few miles to the south-east.

While a cloud of bombers showered explosive on the Government positions, the cruiser Almirante Cervera shelled them from the sea; and after an intense bombardment in preparation, Insurgent infantry started to attack up the slope. According to reports, this attack, like others, was repulsed with heavy losses.

When the three-hour bombardment had ceased, says one news source in Bilbao, the Insurgents gave out the news that Mount Jata had been captured. But the correspondent of the Febus News Agency declares: "I can state that the hill is still in Government hands. On the slopes is a carpet of corpses, evidence of the terrible struggle."

Surprise Attack

The Insurgents delivered a surprise attack on Espinosa de Briceia, near the border, between Santander and Burgos, but Loyalists report that a counter-attack forced the insurgent forces to retreat with heavy losses.—United Press.

International Appeal

London, May 18.
The Non-Intervention Committee has decided to appeal to both sides in Spain to renounce aerial bombings. The Committee also intends to take other steps in an effort to humanise the civil war that has already claimed half a million lives.

Further directions in which tentative steps have already been taken include the control of Spanish capital and assets, and a scheme to prohibit the departure from territories of signatory nations to the Non-Intervention Pact, of non-Spanish people whose activities might prolong or embitter the conflict.—Reuter.

Swing To Right

Valencia, May 18.

After a conference with President Azana which lasted far into the night, the Socialist Prime Minister, Senor Juan Negrin, announced he had formed the following Cabinet:

Prime Minister, Juan Negrin;
Minister of War, Marine and Air (National Defence), Indalecio Prieto;
Minister of Foreign Affairs, Jose Giral;
Minister of Justice, Manuel Delgado;
Minister of Finance, Juan Negrin;
Minister of Education, Jesus Hernandez;
Minister of the Interior, Zugazaga;
Minister of Labour, Jaime Ayguade;
Minister of Communication, Bernande Giner;
Minister of State, Delos Rios;
Minister of Agriculture, Vicente Uribe.

It is notable the Government is virtually the same as the last in political colour and texture, save that the radical C.N.T. is not represented. It is thus a swing to the Right. Well-informed quarters do not consider it strong, however, though the extreme political elements are temporarily satisfied. They were particularly anagenistic to Senor Largo Caballero, the former Prime Minister.—United Press.

Government's Task

Valencia, May 18.
The particular task of the new Spanish Government will be to "unify" the command of the military operations against the Rebels, as well as control the economic life of the country."

This Government statement was made shortly after announcement of the formation of the new Cabinet.

The statement adds that the new Government deplors the absence of Trade Union organizations in the Cabinet.—Reuter.

FUND FOR WIDOWS

CHINESE BEWILDERED BY SUDDEN TRAGEDY

The Telegraph has received a further donation of $5 for distribution to the widows and children of the Chinese crew of the Dolina Maru, the latest contribution being from Mr. H. C. Bough.

A correspondent yesterday suggested that any money received should be distributed as soon as possible to the widows and children left destitute by the tragedy.

At least 15 of these unfortunate and bewildered people have congregated throughout the day outside the O.S.K. office. To the wife of one of the men fell the terrible task this morning of identifying her husband, whose body was found in the wreckage of the Dolina Maru.
